Contract Signed For $750,000 Dam On Santiago Creek

TO IMPOUND 25,000 ACRE FEET WATER

Negotiations Under Way to Construct Second Dam Below Orange Co. Park
ELECTION NECESSARY
Water Will Be Furnished To Irrigate 2500 Acres In Villa Park, El Modena

CONSTRUCTION of a $750,000 water conservation dam on the Santiago creek by the Irvine company, the Serrano Water company, and the John D. Carpenter Water company virtually was assured today with the signing of a contract by the two water companies. Announcement of the completion of negotiations for launching the project was made by Willard Smith, of Orange, president of the Serrano Water company.

With the contract already signed by the Irvine company, all parties interested in the huge project had joined in clearing the way for immediate launching of proceedings looking toward placing the scheme on a construction basis.

The Serrano Water company and the Carpenter Water company, headed by L. W. Evans, serve approximately 2500 acres in the Villa Park and El Modena districts, which thus will be practically assured of adequate irrigation supplies from the reservoir.

Plans for the dam have located it above the Orange county park at a spot formerly known as the fourth crossing on the Santiago creek. It will impound 25,000 acre feet of water and flood approximately 600 acres. The dam will be of the earth fill type, the same type as is being planned for the Santa Ana river by the Orange county flood control district.

Completion of negotiations marks the culmination of years of cooperative effort to make the water, salvaging scheme a reality. According to the agreement between the three parties launching the scheme, the Irvine company will finance one-half of the $750,000 outlay while the two water company districts will assume one-quarter each. The plans call for storing the water in the reservoir and conducting it to members of

HOUSE AND SENATE CONFEREES DEADLOCKED ON DRY INCREASE

FIRE MARSHAL STILL PROBING SUNDAY BLAZE

Declares He Is Not Convinced Vanderlip Building Was Not Set Afire

BOYD SLEEPER, fire marshal, is not yet convinced that the fire in the Vanderlip building Sunday was not of incendiary origin.

Following his return from Los Angeles where he spent 24 hours working on the probe, he declared that he was "not through" with his investigation and that it would be continued until he was thoroughly convinced the building was not fired by a "firebug."

One man was taken into custody two days ago and questioned regarding his whereabouts at the time of the fire and just before, but SLEEPER stated that he proved an alibi and would not be held.

The fact that the blaze started in a vacant room on the second floor of the building, apparently from nothing, immediately caused firemen to suspect that the fire was incendiary, and the peculiar manner in which the fire burned through the floor, added to this suspicion.

SLEEPER stated today that he learned that the building was not locked at the rear and a person desiring to enter would have found little difficulty in doing so.

Another suspicious fact relative to the fire was that it started in the building early on Sunday morning, when there would be no one there ordinarily.

One of the tenants of the building recently had trouble with an employee and the employee was discharged, SLEEPER said. He stated that he was looking into the possibility that the disgruntled employee may have sought revenge.

No definite action in the case is expected within the next 48 hours, SLEEPER stated, that he declared that the department would leave no stone unturned to run down the person to earth in case it was definitely established that the building was damaged by a fire bug.

WILL RETIRE
Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps to retire as head of the service.

LEJEUNE WILL QUIT AS HEAD OF U. S. MARINES

"Old Indian," Beloved By All His Men Going Back To San Francisco

By ALFRED P. RECK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The "Old Indian"—Major General John Archer Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, is going back to the marine barracks at San Francisco where he started his career 40 years ago.

Yesterday he announced his retirement as commandant on March 5. He will remain in active service, however, for 22 months longer when he reaches the age limit.

"I served my first duty at San Francisco, I liked it and I want to end my service there," the general said today.

Beloved by officers and men alike, General Lejeune is one of the most popular commandants in marine corps history.

The men of the World War second division knew him as a just and considerate leader. Many a wounded "leather neck" thrilled at the friendly touch and smile of the general for he spent most of his rest period, time visiting his wounded and seeing that they received proper care.

It was this love of his fellowman that turned General Lejeune from the life of a naval officer into the marine corps.

"I knew after my first cruise I could never enjoy being a sailor," he confided. "I love to work with men, to handle men and not machinery. That is the reason I transferred to the marines."

BUSINESS MEN OF SANTA ANA HEAR ADDRESS

Annual Meeting of Credit Bureau Is Attended By Over 200 Persons

CREDITING business men with responsibility for every advancement made by the United States since organization of the Union, Edward Trefz, nationally known counsellor for community building programs, and for many years field secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in an address to 200 persons at the annual meeting of the Santa Ana Business Men's association, at St. Ann's Inn, last night, declared his belief that when enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment is made effective and when a permanent world peace program is established, the accomplishments will be made by the business men of the United States.

"If the ministers and others seeking enforcement of the Volstead law will keep their hands off and leave settlement of the condition to the W. C. T. U. and the business men of America, complete elimination will be made of the liquor problem within a period of seven years," the speaker declared with emphasis.

"Approximately 78.7 per cent of the taxes paid in the United States is paid by business corporations and business men," Trefz declared, in an assertion that the pressure of business men has been the power back of every advance step made by the nation.

The speaker recounted that he was classed as a disturber when he toured the United States in 1913 making a plea for release of shackles placed on business by the national government, and pointed with pride to his vindication by reversal of conditions that obtained at that time.

Trefz declared that back of the fight between John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Robert W. Stewart for control of the Standard Oil of Indiana was the policy of business today in demanding straightforward conduct of commercial activities, and he predicted that Rockefeller would be successful in his efforts to remove Stewart from the chairmanship of the board of directors.

Asserting that the big dividend is announced the Standard of Indiana will distribute to stockholders, the speaker said that its distribution would be nothing but "slop" passed shareholders to influence their vote in favor of Stewart.

Trefz is one man who has not lost faith in the young people of this generation and he very strongly emphasized a declaration that the young people of today are no worse than were the young people of his boyhood days.

Reach Impasse In Effort To Get Together

Chairman Warren's Reports to Senate Brings Forth Threats

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Conferees are so hopelessly deadlocked over the proposed $24,000,000 prohibition increase and the tax publicity features of the first deficiency bill that nothing can be done about the matter now, Chairman Warren of the senate conferees reported to the senate today.

His pessimistic report stirred up threats from the prohibitionists and considerable discussion about a compromise on the tax feature, but no action was taken. The Republican floor leader, Vice-President-elect Curtis ended the debate by moving that the senate proceed with other business.

Warren said he only wishes to advise the senate of the impasse. Notice of the failure of trying to get the senate to modify the dry feature was served by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, author of the amendment.

He said if the conferees let the bill be killed in conference because of the impasse, he would move to tack the amendment on the next deficiency bill which will be brought up in a week. If they kill the second bill, he said he would renew his fight in the special session of congress.

Harris read two news dispatches showing the Massachusetts legislature had gone on record for repeal of the 18th amendment and that the Wisconsin state senate had passed a bill for a referendum on repeal of the Wisconsin state enforcement act.

"More states will act likewise if we do not provide sufficient money to enforce prohibition," said Harris. "The reason prohibition isn't enforced is because we do not appropriate the money. We cannot expect the state to support the law if we do not support it with federal funds."

Harris said the house conferees should go back to the house and get a direct vote on the senate amendment. He believes the house would accept the amendment if its leaders would permit it to vote on that question alone.

Warren started the debate by reading two of the published letters from Secretary of Treasury Mellon opposing the prohibition clause and the tax feature.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, author of the original tax publicity amendment submitted a new amendment for publication in the record, which he said would meet all of Mellon's objections. The new amendment would provide that in tax refund cases involving more than $10,000 a public hearing would be held before a special commission of three members to be appointed by the commission of internal revenue. The remainder of the treasury departments tax system would remain the same.

Appropriation bills were the order of business for the day in both houses.

The house accepted the senate amendments on the cruiser bill and sent the measure to the president for signature.

MIDDLE WEST STATES SUFFER IN GRIP OF WORST WINTER IN HISTORY; BLIZZARDS FORECAST

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(UP)—From snowbound and blizzard-swept portions of the west today came additional tales of hardship and heroism to be entered in the history of one of the worst winters the people of this section of the United States have experienced in many years.

A new blizzard was sweeping out of the Rocky Mountains where deep snows and ice have isolated villages, disrupted rail service, stopped airmail planes and brought unusual phenomena to the skies.

Denver reported the intense cold and snow had caused the appearance of "sun dogs" or mock suns, one purple and the other red.

Trunk highways in Utah were blocked by snow and the air mail plane from Los Angeles was forced down in a blizzard at St. George.

Roads out of Denver were made impassable by snowdrifts and in the business section of the Colorado capital two street cars were thrown off their snow laden tracks.

Similar conditions were reported from Iowa and Michigan. In the former state a flood of mail—the first in a month—poured in from the residents of Colesburg through a narrow trail cut in the huge snowbanks which had isolated the village.

The people of Colesburg had suffered from lack of fuel and food, although prohibition agents who reached the community by sleigh last week were said to have confiscated a large quantity of whisky.

Medicine and food to relieve an epidemic of influenza in the ice locked village of Beaver Island, Mich., in the Straits of Mackinac, was carried in by airplane from Chicago.

The relief plane's crew returned with the story of Mary Gallagher, 19 year old Chicago stenographer, who was said to have fought her way through 45 miles of snow and ice to reach the bedside of her mother at St. James.

Miss Gallagher was reported to have set out from Cross Village, Mich., by sleigh. The sleigh was drawn by two horses and Mary was accompanied by two nurses and two guides. Half way to her destination the horses became crippled and the party was forced to continue on foot.

For 15 hours they worked their way over jagged ice floes, sometimes crawling on their hands and knees to keep from being blown into the water by the blizzard.

Temperatures throughout the midwest were descending today as the wave of cold which drove the mercury down to 22 degrees below zero yesterday in Montana and North Dakota, swept in over Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana.

VIENNA, Feb. 7.—(UP)—Unconfirmed reports received here today with authorities believed greatly exaggerated, said that a virulent epidemic of influenza had taken many lives in Prague, Czechoslovakia. The reports said one cemetery was averaging two burials an hour.

Donovan Named Federal Delegate At Dam Meetings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(UP)—President Coolidge today appointed William J. Donovan, assistant attorney general, as a representative of the federal government to participate in negotiations between Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming under provisions of the Boulder dam act.

MISS FLOY DONALDSON, HEAD OF S. A. HIGH SCHOOL ARTS DEPARTMENT, DIES SUDDENLY

Miss Floy J. Donaldson, head of the Santa Ana high school and junior college art departments since 1922, passed away in her home, at 532 South Patton street, at 5 p. m., yesterday. Miss Donaldson had been absent from school on the preceding day, suffering with neuritis, but was expected to return today. Her death came unexpectedly, supposedly from a heart attack. Her sister, Mrs. Ida D. Ward, had stepped from the room for a few moments. On her return she spoke to Miss Donaldson but received no answer.

Combining popularity with maintaining high standards in her school activities, Miss Donaldson was well known in Santa Ana and was credited with stimulating the exceptionally fine art work in the yearly publications of the high school and college, the Aerial and Algal.

She came to Santa Ana from Central high school, in Minneapolis, where she had taught for five years. She possessed a fine arts diploma from Columbia university and had been an instructor in the summer session in the Chicago School of Applied Arts. She was 49 years of age.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Saturday, in the Smith and Tutthill chapel. Mrs. Ward is Miss Donaldson's only relative in Santa Ana.

APPEALS TO JURORS FOR ACQUITTAL

Former District Attorney Makes Dramatic Speech And Asks Name Cleared

CORRIDORS CROWDED

Special Police Required to Keep Order As Defendant Makes His Own Plea

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(UP)—Asa Keyes, who served Los Angeles as a prosecutor of criminals for 25 years, today presented the most brilliant argument of his long legal career—a dramatic plea for his own acquittal on conspiracy to bribe charges.

Rising to gripping heights he never achieved before, the one-time district attorney called upon a jury of ten women and two men to free him of the "odium of these false accusations."

"He who steals my purse, steals trash," Keyes thundered the trite paraphrase, "but he who filches from me my good name makes me poor indeed."

And then Keyes concluded his argument with the words: "Friends, I'm down, but I'm not out."

The former district attorney's flow of words and the bitter objections to his line of argument created one of the stormiest sessions in local court history.

Spectators and even members of the jury went while crowds in the courtroom outside became so large and unruly that special deputy sheriffs were sent to keep order.

Keyes' final argument was a mixture of emotions. At times he pleaded and cajoled while a few minutes later he would be casting bitter accusations at his accusers.

The courtroom was in an uproar as he accused the prosecutors of having a "special interest" in the case, of using perjured testimony and unfair tactics.

"I demand that you know that in this case they want to get Keyes. In the truth, they are out to get Keyes. Someone paid $2,000 for perjured testimony to convict Keyes. (Throughout his argument he referred to himself with the impersonal "Keyes")."

"The very fact that there is a special prosecutor in this case is an admission of weakness on the part of the prosecution and a proof of special interests in the background."

"Clark was appointed special prosecutor, there is no doubt of that. He says he was appointed by the attorney general. But someone suggested his name and I wonder who that someone was. I wonder who that person or powerful corporation might be."

"Burton Fitts, the present district attorney, had two able assistants who could have handled this case. Fitts, himself, could have handled it. Instead of that Clark, the special prosecutor, has done most of the work."

Just a few minutes before Keyes turned to his charges of special interests and perjured testimony he became embroiled with Clark in a

ORMISTON SOUGHT IN HARDY PROBE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(UP)—Kenneth G. Ormiston, whose cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea figured prominently in the grand jury inquiry of Almee Semple McPherson's mysterious kidnapping, will be subpoenaed to appear before the legislative committee investigating the $2500 check given Superior Judge Carlos Hardy by Angelus temple.

Ormiston, former radio operator at Angeles temple, probably will be questioned concerning entries of certain checks on the books of the temple. No definite date has been set for his questioning.

WOMAN SHOT SHIP PURSER, NEW THEORY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—(UP)—Possibility that a woman may have fired the shot that resulted in death of J. Allen McDaniel, assistant purser of the President McKinley, was advanced by ship's officers today.

McDaniel was found lying on the floor of his cabin while the ship was docked at Manila. A small caliber bullet had made a fatal wound and he died five days later in a shore hospital without regaining consciousness.

A theory that the bullet had been fired through a port hole was discounted by the officers, who said the position of the wounded man's body when found discounted such a possibility.

SHARKEY SIGNS TO BOX JACK DEMPSEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—Jack Sharkey today signed to meet Jack Dempsey in September if the current heavyweight situation should work out that way.

This would seem to forecast the return of Dempsey to the ring. Or, it may be merely so much more ballyhoo for the Sharkey - Stribling fight here February 27.

In any event it may mean a repetition of that memorable encounter between Dempsey and Sharkey at Yankee stadium in the summer of 1927. Dempsey won on a knockout in the seventh round, Sharkey claiming he had been fouled.

"ITS NICE TO GET UP IN THE MORNING, BUT NICER TO STAY IN BED," SAY BREAKFASTERS

"Oh, How I Hate to Get up in the Morning." The spirit of this song rather pervaded the atmosphere at this morning's meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club, and was reflected in action in changing the hour of the meeting from 7 to 7:30 a. m., starting next Thursday and continuing until April 1.

Members commenting on the suggestion of President Guy Gilbert that the time be changed to the later hour expressed the belief that 7 o'clock is too early in the morning during the winter months, and the 7:30 hour was placed on probation for the period up to April 1, when it probably will be returned to 7 o'clock.

With George Boyd officiating as program chairman, Assemblyman Ted Craig was introduced as the speaker, the chairman commenting on the fact that he and Craig were boys together. Boyd also paid a tribute to the assemblyman by saying that he was a self-made man who had advanced to his position today by his personality and by his indomitable will to succeed.

Commenting on the bill providing increased salaries for Orange county officials and for an increase in the number of deputies, the assemblyman emphasized the point that in its presentation he was carrying out the wishes of the grand jury. He expressed the belief that it will be only a matter of 10 or 15 years when Orange county virtually would be one big city.

Vocal solos by Mrs. Jessie Craig and by Lloyd Roach, both accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Bruner, were the musical features of the program.

CEMENT MEN FACE CONTEMPT CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—(UP)—Defendants in the state senate investigation of an alleged cement trust in California, today faced possible contempt proceedings.

Shortly before the committee recessed last night two more witnesses, C. C. Merrill, president of Monolith Portland Cement company, was called to the stand.

Like other officials who proceeded him, Merrill refused to answer questions pertaining to finances or prices.

On motion of Sen. J. M. Inman, of Sacramento, the committee announced it would consider instituting contempt proceedings.

Chambers Urged To Refuse Harbor Bill Indorsement

MAJORITY VOTE PLAN OPPOSED BY COMMITTEE

The legislative committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county, meeting late yesterday afternoon in the directors room of the First National bank in Orange, recommended to the county chambers body that it refuse to endorse the measure introduced in the legislature for creation of a harbor district in Orange county with provision for a bond issue on a straight majority vote. Objection was based on the majority provision.

Action on a bill introduced by Senator Frank Meriam, of Long Beach, creating machinery for annexation of adjoining cities in different counties, was deferred until a later meeting, when the committee will confer with District Attorney West and County Assessor Sleeper on this measure and on the bill proposing a tax on intangible assets.

Annexation Movement
The Meriam bill is designed to make it possible for Long Beach to annex Seal Beach and will apply to other communities in the state situated similarly to Long Beach and Seal Beach. It is understood that the assessors of the state virtually have agreed to assess intangibles at their full face value and the committee will investigate this phase of the proposal before passing a recommendation. The state bill provides for a tax of three mills, but it is understood that there will be a fight in the legislature on the tax rate, with the battle raging around the point as to whether the rate should be two mills or three mills.

In considering the county harbor bill, the committee had before it compromise propositions of beach interests. One of the proposals was that of omission of the Orange county shore line from the established boundaries of the flood control district so that it might be incorporated in a district for voting of bonds for improvement of the harbor at Newport Beach. The committee declined to accept this proposal because the flood control district already has been created by act of the legislature and because it was not officially before the committee for recommendation. The harbor bill was referred to the committee at the associated meeting in Placentia last week.

Proposal that the committee recommend changing the flood control bill to provide for issuance of bonds on a two-thirds majority vote instead of a ma-of his days and to the fact that it required at least one hand on the steering wheel of an automobile, the speaker said that "young people could raise more hell in a sidecar buggy than they can in an automobile."

The young people are drinking less liquor per capita than in the days when liquor was not illegal, the orator asserted.

"Full enforcement of the volstead law will be an accomplished fact within seven years, and it will be made effective by the pressure of business men," Trefts said. "At the time of the world war we educated the people to buy bonds and to abstain from certain foods for the sake of the men overseas. We can conduct just such a campaign for elimination of the liquor evil—and when we have convinced business men of the evils of the present day practice they will rise up and say we are going to cut out liquor drinking—and it will be cut out."

The community building council predicted a great era of prosperity during the administration of President elect Herbert Hoover, and anticipates under his administration the establishment of seasonal occupation that will prevent the existence of poverty in the United States. The Mississippi river project and the Boulder dam program were cited as specific projects by which the seasonal occupational program could be introduced.

ARLETT COMES TO TERMS
OAKLAND, Feb. 7.—"Buzz" Arlett, veteran outfielder, and Monroe Dean, Seattle youth, have signed to play with the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. Dean is a shortstop.

Majority vote also was rejected. Committee Members
Members of the committee are J. A. Smiley, chairman, West Orange; Senator N. T. Edwards, Orange; Horace Fine, Santa Ana; Ralph McFadden, Placentia, and J. W. Hargrave, Yorba Linda. Assemblyman Ted Craig and George Macleod, of Newport Beach, were others present at the meeting. Because of his position as state senator, Edwards did not vote on the motion to recommend disapproval of the harbor bill. The rejection motion was passed on the vote of McFadden, Hargrave and Smiley, Fine voting no.

"This Colonel Light, a court martialed colonel, if you please,"

The statement was interrupted by special prosecutor Clark who demanded that Keyes confine his argument to evidence in the case.

Keyes interposed a caustic reply and the court ordered the jury to consider only such remarks as were borne out in the evidence.

The defendant attorney turned again to Colonel Light.

"Colonel Light has no love in his heart for Keyes," Keyes thundered. "I prosecuted his father 10 years ago for an election fraud and Fitts knows it." Keyes leveled his finger directly at the present district attorney.

Fitts, red with anger, jumped to his feet and yelled: "I don't know it and you know I don't know it."

Superior Judge Butler intervened and after some delay quieted the rival attorneys.

On the witness stand, Colonel Light testified to seeing Keyes drinking with Ben Getzoff, a fellow defendant, in Getzoff's small Spring street tailor shop.

the district and to the Irvine company land through pipe lines. With the distribution systems of the companies in operation at the present time, it is expected that only about three miles of pipe lines will be necessary in order to hook up with the new reservoir.

Voting of bonds by members in the water company districts will be provided for by proceedings which will be launched by attorneys for the concerns affected. Settling of the date for the election is one of the phases of the situation which will receive attention as a result of the signing of the contract.

When the dam is completely full after a capacity year of rainfall, it will provide irrigation water for two following years even if normal rains do not occur. With one-half a normal rainfall in the years following the capacity year, adequate supplies for three years will be available. This means that, barring three or four continuous dry years, the 2500 acres affected will be assured of water.

Although definite plans have not been completed, negotiations have been under way for the construction of a second reservoir below the Orange county park at a distance of a mile or a mile and one-half. This projected dam was not included in the contract just signed but the contracting parties still are working out details whereby it is expected that the second reservoir will be constructed.

With the election proceedings successfully completed it is expected that actual construction of the dam in the not far distance future will be a possibility.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Not in a moment did you cease to be a child and become a man. All of life's processes are gradual.
You did not learn the deep secrets of love and its unspoken language in the twinkling of an eye; time and experience were required.
Likewise you must be patient with yourself while you are learning to read just your life with its unfamiliar burdens and longings infinite.
Do not be discouraged at finding yourself so weak and so unready. Go forward as bravely as you can, confidently expecting that God will point the way and give you the strength to do your duty well.

PALMER—Reuben Palmer, husband of Adeline J. Palmer, 412 East Sixth street, passed away February 7, at the age of 86 years. Announcement of services will be made later by the Winbiger Mission Funeral home.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our appreciation for the loving thoughts and the beautiful floral offerings of our many friends during our recent bereavement.

OPERATION IS EXPLAINED BY RUDDY. TWAY

Building of a credit consciousness into residents and merchants of Santa Ana was the outstanding feature of the 1928 operations of the Santa Ana Business Men's Association and 1929 will be pronounced by the rounding out of the organization by development of group organizations within the association, according to statements made by President William Tway at the annual meeting of the association, last night, in St. Ann's Inn.

Reminding the members present that the credit association was reorganized three years ago, Tway said that the first two years had been devoted to building up the office equipment and to establishing confidence in the association among the business men of the community.

He asserted that business men identified with the association today were utilizing more than ever the facilities of the credit information bureau as a direct result of the efforts of officials to establish confidence in the organization. Development Told

R. Earl Ruddy, secretary-manager, in a later presentation of the work of the association, emphasized the development of the organization by pointing out that the office force now consists of nine persons, as compared with three when reorganization was completed.

Ruddy stressed the building up of files containing complete credit information on scores of persons seeking credit in commercial houses here and pointed out that in 1927 the organization had instituted in its office files showing the names of the owners of every piece of property in Orange county. The value of the additional file, he said, lies in the fact that the association can verify statements made to merchants by persons seeking credit accommodations. He said that through identification with the California Association of Credit Bureaus and the latter's membership in the national association, the Santa Ana organization has available the credit records of 60,000,000 individuals in the United States.

Success of one branch of the service rendered members was reflected in the statement by Ruddy that in 1927 the collection department had received $33,000 on bills placed in its hands for adjustment and that in 1928 the year's collections were $41,000, with an average of $27.50 to the claim.

The manager said that members had been saved thousands of dollars in 1928 by refusal of the advertising committee to sanction solicitation for types of advertising that are classed by the association as illegitimate.

The election of six men to the board of directors resulted in the selection of Sam Suddaby, L. D. Coffing, N. E. Lentz, R. B. Newcomb, C. E. Rutledge and H. B. Van Dien. Hold-over members are Alex Brownridge, H. J. Lowe and C. H. Van Antwerp. The board later will meet and organize by selection of officers and appointment of a manager.

Employees Introduced

Members of the office force introduced by Ruddy were H. C. Westover, head of the collection and legal department; David Smiley, outside collector; Mrs. Rita Furuch, chief credit reporter; Miss Eunice McGowan and Mrs. Esther Preston, credit reporters; Mrs. Ina German, bookkeeper; Mrs. Lucy Doty, property records clerk, and Miss Lina Dunn, stenographer in the collection department.

The musical program in connection with the annual banquet and meeting consisted of orchestral numbers by the Spanish troubadors and vocal solos by Edwards Delgado, during the dinner hour and the Harrell quartet and two singing numbers by Miss Laura Joiner, accompanied by Miss Mildred Marchant, whistler.

"I sure was right - I lit a Lucky"

"So many people have made a fuss over me because in rowing back to the 'America,' after we had picked up the 'Florida' survivors, I was smoking a Lucky Strike. I can't see why there should be any excitement about this—it was the natural thing for me to do. Before we started out from the 'America' I made sure that my pack of Luckies was with me—I wanted the comfort and pleasure of Luckies no matter what happened. I sure was right. I'll have to admit that after we picked up the 'Florida' crew and started back, my nerves were completely let down. So I did the thing I always do at such times—I lit a Lucky. As long as I live, I'll never get another kick as I did from the sweet old toasted flavor of that Lucky as we were tossing about on the old Atlantic. I'm a hundred percent when it comes to 'reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' I lay off the things that would make me flabby and light up a Lucky instead. There's too much action going on in my life to have me moving around with a lot of excess weight which I don't need. There's another thing about Luckies, is a blessing to us who follow the sea. It prevents throat irritation which is a constant nuisance to those who are regularly exposed to salt air."

Expert Tells Advantages Of High-Powered Stations

FACTS CALLED BIG DETRIMENT TO 'FREE AIR'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Charges that control of radio by a "radio trust" is a menace to the safety of the republic were made before the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries by Oswald F. Schuette, executive secretary of the Radio Protective association.

Schuette testified in favor of the White bill to extend the life of the federal radio commission another year after March 15, and explained that he represented 44 independent radio tube and accessory manufacturers which constitute the association.

In a statement read to the committee Schuette said the association makes a specific recommendation to congress to instruct the radio commission, before granting any further license or renewals of licenses for communication or broadcasting, to make sure that the applicants have no outstanding contracts or other agreements which would restrict them in making the fullest use of the wave lengths allotted to them.

Freedom Means Progress
He said the association had particularly in mind the agreements under which the Radio Corporation of America, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, General Electric company, Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company, the United Fruit company, and their various subsidiaries, such as the National Broadcasting company and the Radio Marine corporation of America, "created the radio trust."

The very progress of the radio art, said Schuette, depends upon "freedom of competition." Consequently, he declared, wavelengths should not be given to any applicant "who is bound, by his affiliations or his contracts, to restrict the fullest use of the channels that may be allotted to him." These franchisees, he said, should be given only to those who come with free hands, unbound by any agreement that might interfere with the freedom of competition in radio.

"Agreements" Hit
Schuette charged that because "agreements which created the radio trust," the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which, he said, owned the wire telephone monopoly and also was given the "wireless telephone monopoly," one cannot telephone by wireless telephone from San Francisco to New York, but can to London.

The telephone company he said, "by that exclusive control of wireless telephony on land has been able to prevent the development of radio competition for its wire system."

Schuette said the association favored the provisions of the present radio law limiting broadcasting licenses to a maximum of three months and other licenses for not to exceed one year. Only in this way, he said, can the commission retain control over these channels.

The commission's counsel said that three months is too short a life for a license, as the commission's work is crowded.

CALDWELL FAVORS UTILITY STATIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Another point of difference between Chairman Robinson of the federal radio commission and one of the commissioners was brought out at a congressional hearing when Commissioner Caldwell favored granting of broadcasting licenses to public utilities.

Chairman Robinson is opposed to such practice. Said Commissioner Caldwell: "I am opposed to our chairman's views on this subject absolutely and completely."

To his knowledge, Caldwell said, stations are operated at Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore, Chicago and Indianapolis by public utilities groups. As long as a particular station is rendering a "good service" to the public, and its programs are as good as programs of other stations, it is serving in the public interest, he declared.

Capt. George Fried, of the America, is shown here alongside the radio compass which guided his ship to the rescue of the crew of the Italian liner Florida sinking in the Atlantic. The instrument is above the pilot house and is connected by a shaft and wires to the receiving set below.

NOVEL COURSE FOR ENGINEERS BEGUN BY N.B.C.

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 7.—The variety of knowledge necessary to enable an engineer to render versatile service at a broadcasting station has prompted the National Broadcasting company to inaugurate a special students' course. The company found there is a shortage of men equipped to render the necessary service, as engineering college graduates do not possess the wide scope of essential knowledge.

O. E. Hanson, manager of the N. B. C. plant, operation and engineering department, said: "Such a course is found to be necessary because it is becoming increasingly difficult to find engineers whose experience and contact are such that they can step into radio work without specific training."

"We found that men efficient in the control rooms knew practically nothing about maintenance or transmission, while in the same fashion, men trained for the field group were unversed in other branches of the plant operations and engineering departments. When they could not be found the new course was created as an experiment."

The first enrollment consisted of seven college graduates, from 21 to 25 years old. Hanson said the radio broadcast engineer must have a varied and complex knowledge of music, high grade transmission, acoustics and the art of radio generally, both from the transmission and receiving viewpoints.

R. M. Morris is conducting the course, which covers the five technical branches of plant operations and the engineering department in six or eight months, the length of time depending on the student and his ability to assimilate the knowledge. A month or more is spent, progressively in the control room at 711 Fifth avenue, New York City, the transmitting stations at Bellmore, Long Island, and Bound Brook, N. J., the maintenance department, the field department and the laboratory.

ETHER IS OWNED BY WHOLE WORLD

OTTAWA, Canada, Feb. 7.—The whole world owns the ether, the International Radio conference agreed, thus sustaining the principles laid down in the 1927 conference that there is no sovereignty in the ether. Each country is duty bound to prevent interference in its own domain, and by mutual agreement with neighboring countries to aid the same end co-operatively.

Canada, Newfoundland, Cuba and the United States participated in the conference. Federal Radio Commissioner Sykes, on behalf of the United States, reciprocated Canada's good wishes.

DON C. WALLACE, IN FIRST STORY OF SERIES, POINTS TO ADVERTISING BENEFITS

Below is printed the first in a series of articles in which Don C. Wallace, member of the American Institute of Radio Engineers, explains for readers of The Register the many advantages of high-powered broadcasting stations. Mr. Wallace has just returned from a survey of eastern broadcast stations and in later articles will tell you of conditions existing in the cities in which they are located. Today's article relates the advantageous advertising a high-powered station brings.

—Radio Editor's Note.

By DON C. WALLACE
American Institute of Radio Engineers

Many persons do not realize that a large broadcasting station located a few miles from town causes less interference than a small broadcasting station right in town. According to the antenna radiation formula, the energy in the air decreases as the square of the distance. Let us take, for example, the case of a 100-watt local station. If the local station is 1-10 mile away it will interfere just 1-25 as much at a distance of 1-2 mile. At one mile 1-100 as much and at two miles 1-400 as much.

A 10,000 watt station (10 kw) at a distance of one mile would interfere just the same as a 100-watt station at one-tenth of a mile. A 50-kw station (50,000 watts) would interfere the same amount at two and one-quarter miles. Accordingly, if the larger station is out of town any distance at all its field of interference would be less than the small local station.

Most localities have a 500-watt or even a 1000-watt station right in the center of town and even here the modern type of ordinary broadcast receiver is not bothered materially. In the broadcasting stations themselves it is considered ordinary reception to place a receiver in the operating room, next to a 1000-watt transmitter, and from there time in, without interference, other stations just 50 to 100 feet away, that is the next local channel as assigned by the radio commission.

In the broadcasting stations it is customary to insert frequency traps in the pickup circuit, but at a distance of a block or two this rarely is done, because it is not necessary.

Get Best Programs
In Bound Brook, N. J., RCA installed the powerful WJZ, with its 100-kw (100,000 watts). At first fans were quite upset to think that they were to have the most powerful radio station in the United States at a distance of one and one-half miles. They soon found that, on the contrary, they were blessed with the finest of programs; much better programs because of the fact that with such a tremendous investment, better programs could be sponsored on a paying basis. The investment justified it, the increased number of listeners justified it, the sweeter tone, because of later types of modulation justified it, as well as the all around improvement made possible by the insertion of the finest type of apparatus available.

Larger sets justify the insertion of thermocoupled piezo oscillators, which keep the emitted frequency of the station right on the dot. Western Electric engineers, for example, report that the deviation from set frequency on this type of control is but 15 cycles plus or minus. Those of our readers who FALLS CHURCH, Va., Feb. 7.—At 9 o'clock each night Edward Redington's mother tells him to get off to bed, which means that boy must desert his home-made wireless set by 10 at the latest.

But Mrs. Redington allows her 15-year-old son to rise as early as he likes and 6 o'clock in the morning finds him back with the dots and dashes.

It was thanks to her enforcement of Benjamin Franklin's sleeping system that Edward achieved fame by establishing two-way radio communication with the Byrd expedition in the Antarctic soon after 6 o'clock on a recent morning. Otherwise, one fears, Edward might have been up all night and sleeping soundly at the moment of his golden opportunity.

That was not the first time that young Redington has picked up the base ship, City of New York. Some 17 or 18 times before, he says, he had received her signals. But it was the first chance he had to talk back.

It is fitting that one can report Edward to be an extraordinary young man. He is about six feet tall and slender, yet looks as young as he is. He was only 11 when radio began to appeal to his imagination and he constructed his own first crystal set.

He's Artist, Too
Edward hasn't decided yet whether he wants to take up commercial radio or art as a lifetime occupation. For Edward is also a painter of animal and bird life. There are woods near the Redington home and on Saturday afternoons he enters them to make pencil sketches of natural life.

Of course this doesn't interfere with the hours during which his station, W3KR, is functioning, these being from 6 to 10 at night and 6 to 7:30 in the morning.

Until radio and art began to take up too much time Edward was in the first class Boy Scout magazine that he first read of the possibilities of radio and began to build sets. His interest soon began to embrace the long distance amateur field, but he wasn't able to do anything with dots and dashes until he became acquainted with other young men in the field and learned the elements.

Now Redington is a member of

SHORT WAVES DISTRIBUTION IS UNDER ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—At congressional hearings on the bill to extend the life of the radio commission for one year, Representative Free of California, raised questions affecting the propriety of the grant by the commission of 40 short wave permits to the Universal Wireless Communications company of Buffalo, N. Y., to send and receive messages. Commissioners Sykes, Lafount and Robinson voted in favor of the grant. Commissioners Caldwell and Pickard did not.

Representative Bland questioned Caldwell concerning the recent short wave allocation.

"Will the establishment of the radio telegraph network of the Universal Communications company create a competition with the Western Union and other telegraph companies?" he asked.

"Yes, and I think it would be desirable," responded Caldwell. Representative Rowbottom (rep.) of Evansville, Ind., said he understood "this is the complaint that the metallic wire companies have against the wireless company."

Representative Larson of Georgia asked Caldwell why the commission had denied the application of the Radio corporation of America for short waves. He cited the fact that the Radio corporation has been long in the transition Atlantic and trans-Pacific radio field.

Caldwell indicated that the Radio corporation would obtain some short wave channels. He declared he had heard it said that the short wave channels allocated to the Universal company were worth $1,000,000 each.

LONG SERVICE

A radio frequency tube in operation at KFI, Los Angeles, has been in use more than 5,000 hours and is still good. If the energy used by this tube had been spent at a rate consumed by the ordinary receiver tube, it would last for 34 years.

ORDER TO LIMIT CHAINS PUT OFF UNTIL MARCH 1

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The effective date of the chain broadcasting order of the federal radio commission, limiting duplicated operations on cleared channels to stations more than 300 miles apart has been postponed from February to March, under a general order adopted by the commission.

The action was taken on motion of Commissioner Lafount. He said that studies thus far show that the probability is "that the effect of general order No. 43 as it now stands will be to deprive important regions of programs which they now desire."

The commission adopted the original general order in September, to become effective along with the general reallocation of November 11. But stations, manufacturers and listeners complained and the commission in October deferred the effective date until February 1. Pending a survey of the effect of the order and the extent to which regions desiring certain programs would be deprived of them.

The new general order (No. 57) follows in full text: "The federal radio commission hereby postpones the effective date of general order 43, limiting duplicated operation on cleared channels to stations more than 300 miles apart, until March 1."

"The full text of the resolution introduced by Commissioner Lafount and adopted by the commission, with Commissioners Sykes, and Pickard dissenting, follows: "Whereas, the engineering division of the commission has not yet completed its survey of the extent to which regions of the country desiring certain programs will be deprived of them, and

"Whereas, it appears from the study so far made by the engineering division that the probability is that the effect of general order No. 43 as it now stands will be to deprive important regions of programs which they now desire, and

"Whereas, it appears necessary that a method be evolved for determination by the commission of the question as to whether there is excessive duplication of programs in any particular region, and if any, the plan of remedy therefor.

"Be it therefore resolved, that the effective date of general order No. 43 be further postponed until March 1, 1929, and that a general order to this effect be issued and promulgated."

Kay Says Children Unafraid Of Mike

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 7.—Microphone fright on the part of children is virtually unknown, said Lambkin Kay, WSB, director and famous announcer. Men used to addressing visible audiences are frightened before the microphone, he added. He cited the case of one who was struck dumb with fright and handed his speech to an announcer to read.

BEFORE THE MIKE

As a first-class college graduate announcer, WGY, Schenectady, exhibits Frank K. Singler Jr., of Brown. Singler is a college man in all respects, besides being the son of a Baptist minister. He carries the insignias of four fraternities and two clubs. While in college he dabbled in dramatics, debating, soccer and basketball. But all of these, Frank opines, aren't one whit as valuable as the letters he receives from fans.

A sport announcer who isn't as well known as Graham McNamee is Jack Filman, official radio announcer for the National Hockey league, from WMSG, Madison Square Garden, New York. But Jack is good, for he's right at home with the game of hockey. He played amateur hockey during his school days and coached lacrosse at Yale. When the U. S. Amateur Hockey league was formed he played with New Haven, Duluth and Pittsburgh.

Mickey Katz, member of Doc Whipple's Golden Pheasant orchestra, heard at WTAM, Cleveland does his "doubling in brass" in his renditions of He-brew dialect numbers. Mickey's versions of modern bedtime stories, especially his "Beauty and the Beast," claim a lot of attention with children and grownups. He is as much at home with a clarinet and saxophone, however, as he is with the broken style of his vocal renditions.

are in the habit of listening in on their receiving sets during the evening will appreciate just what this means. If all stations were so equipped there would not be that steady howl or "heterodyne whistle" on certain frequencies and about certain stations. If all the stations in the United States were so equipped and set on frequency the heterodyne whistles would all be gone.

Cut Background "Mush"

With the modern type of equipment made possible by larger investments, the background "mush" is reduced more than in inverse proportion to the percentage of modulation obtained by the later types of equipment. The typical broadcasting station, for example, secures a modulated output of about 40 per cent.

Thermo-coupled piezo oscillator-controlled double percentage transmitters approach the perfect condition of 100 per cent modulation—in actual practice about 80 per cent modulation. This is fully twice the percentage of modulation secured on the ordinary transmitters, so the background "mush" is just about 25 per cent of its former amount as compared to the modulated output and it is of chief interest to all of us.

The advantages of such a station to Orange county are apparent. A casual survey of the situation soon will bear this out. With Los Angeles county, Los Angeles city, Hollywood, Pasadena, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Burbank and Glendale all broadcasting to the far corners the merits of their city, climate and good will, it is of no wonder that beautiful Santa Ana and resourceful Orange county are more or less lost in the shuffle outside the realms of their immediate vicinity.

Rectifies Situation

A large station will do much to rectify this situation. Good programs from such a station will secure the attention necessary to make it popular both at home, in adjacent counties and in far away states.

When people in the east speak of California they naturally speak of Los Angeles and Hollywood. For years the two stations of the west best received in the east were located in these two cities and now, with the new influx of people and money from the east, they inadvertently think of those two cities first. Santa Ana is only a secondary thought; but no doubt a little publicity on the names of Santa Ana and Orange county from a station of such proportions as to justify the attention of the far away easterner will influence a greater proportion of the new settlers, with their money and their interest.

Station Brings Fame

Whoever, for instance, heard of Shreveport, La., before the big station was located there? Whoever thought much about Schenectady before WGY made it popular? Many others immediately come to mind, such as San Jose, Laramie, Hot Springs, Roswell and a host of other cities whose national prominence today is without a doubt due to good, substantial local radio stations.

Orange county can consider itself fortunate to be chosen as the locality for the establishment of a new and wonderful radio station. The city, as well as the people within the city and the people about the city, will benefit from then on with increasing advantage gained each successive month and year that the station is in operation.

NEEDED ALCOHOL

Station WBBM, Chicago, was recently forced to shut down because a radiator containing the water used to cool a set of tubes was frozen. Air to cool the radiator is sucked in from outside by a fan, and as the thermometer read 21 degrees below zero, the radiator soon froze.

RADIO OPERATED UNDER SEA

Radio reception is taken for granted on land and in the air. But it has been left to Uncle Sam's largest submarine, the U. S. S. V-4, to show that it's just as good far under the sea. Here is one of three receivers in the sub, this one in the officers' quarters, which is sleeping, living and dining rooms combined. This little set, says Lieutenant Hollowell, of the V-4, has brought in concerts from comparatively low-powered stations when far off shore and under the surface. The sub's steel shell, electric wiring and motors seem to furnish no trouble for it.

15-YEAR-OLD BOY TALKS WITH BYRD

The American Radio Relay league. He received his license six months ago. It was in K-S-T, the league's magazine, that he obtained most of the dope which enabled him to construct the set with which he has talked to the Byrd party. It was the issue for November, 1928, one might add for amateurs, which contained all the latest information for 1929 construction work. Edward supplemented that with numerous inquiries among his friends and considerable reading elsewhere.

Edward works in his bedroom, from which his 35-foot aerial is strung to a nearby tree. His antenna arrangement permits him to transmit and receive at the same time, allowing the operator to whom he is sending to break in and ask for a repeat if necessary.

School Stops Talk

He is trying each morning to reconnect with the Byrd operator. "I might have had a chance to do a little 'rag chewing' with him, as the amateurs call it, if I hadn't had to get ready for school," he says.

"After its regular scheduled communications every morning the ship sends out a general call for anyone who can answer and it was at that time that I talked with her operator. So many try to call him back these mornings that hardly anyone can break through.

"I gave him a report on his signals and asked him if the base ship had any messages to transmit. He didn't have any message, but gave me a weather report and remarked that it was very cold down there."

Young Redington's call book shows he has talked with stations in Germany, Belgium, Australia, Portugal, Holland and Spain within a single week. The other evening he had EBVRD of Belgium on for two hours, delivering a message from a friend in Washington to a friend in Paris, testing out some equipment for another station and just plain "rag chewing."

The boy's father is Paul G. Redington, assistant forester of the department of agriculture.

HAND-TUNING GIVES WAY TO AUTOMATIC

Hand tuning of radio receivers has given way this season to the modern method of automatic tuning, presented exclusively as an outstanding feature of Zenith radio, according to Bob Gerwing, Santa Ana Zenith dealer.

Automatic tuning's favorable advantages over old-fashioned hand tuning have made it the preferable choice of the prospective radio purchaser desiring the newest in radio, Gerwing says.

Now, in stride with the rapid developments of radio, a touch of a button tunes in the desired station—for automatic tuning, briefly explained, means just "Press the button, there's your station!" the dealer explains. Automatic tuning makes no exceptions to the number of stations obtainable automatically, for every station that can be tuned by hand on the old-fashioned dial can be tuned by the automatic device. Particularly for distant stations, automatic tuning is ideal and appealing. Distant stations once jogged automatically return instantly and unerringly whenever a button is pressed.

Signal Hill school of Belleville, Ill., is said to be the first school in Illinois to equip itself with unit control receivers. By this system, all eight rooms of the school receive the same program.

Thinks Schools Will Have Own Stations

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—Superintendent of Schools R. G. Jones predicts schools will do their own broadcasting of educational programs. "I believe," he says, "that the board of education will some time own its own sending station and broadcast lessons to many schools at once."

"There is a man in New York who is the most capable history teacher in the country. Why shouldn't we pay him $100 for broadcasting an hour's lesson on the French revolution? Children would get a better picture of the period and would receive more instruction than they ordinarily get in a week of routine work."

Jones believes that television and radio will bring before students some of the greatest educators in the world. He does not think radio will supplant the individual instructor, but will act as an aid to members of the regular teaching staff.

DAMROSCH TO OPEN NEW SERIES SOON

Sponsored by the General Electric company, Walter Damrosch and the National orchestra will begin a new series of coast-to-coast radio broadcasts through NBC system stations Saturday, from 6 to 7 p. m., Pacific Standard time.

For the first program in this series the renowned conductor has chosen typical compositions by Liszt, Beethoven, Moszkowski, Grieg and Schubert. Liszt's musical picture of the French revolution, his "Robespierre" overture, will introduce the hour.

A nation-wide audience also will hear the orchestra, guided by Damrosch's expressive baton, interpret such masterworks as the Largetto Movement of Beethoven's Symphony No. 2, a movement considered one of the loveliest of the great musician's compositions, and Grieg's familiar melody for strings, "Spring."

RADIO COMPASS IS MEANS OF RESCUE

sight of the submarines and safely across the Atlantic.

Dr. Koister's invention makes use of the generally known radio compass idea and is being applied to ships of all sizes all over the world. Not only does the compass show the position of a ship in distress, whatever the weather but it gives the captain his true position whenever shore radio beacons or other ships can be heard.

The remarkable fact of the Florida rescue is that, although the radio operator of the sinking ship could not give his position Captain Fried was able to direct the America straight to the scene through use of the radio compass.

This instrument consists of an oval coil mounted upright in what looks like a small water tank on skids. The instrument is placed over the pilot house. The oval coil revolves on ball bearings and is connected by a shaft running down through the roof with the rest of the compass in the pilot house.

Operated in Pilot House
In the pilot house stands a cylindrical device almost shoulder high and containing a sensitive eight-tube receiving set. The shaft from the coil runs down to this set and is rotated by means of a wheel. A dummy compass rests over the set, while a wire needle attached to the shaft points to a direction on the compass.

Earphones come from the set for use by the radio operator or anyone listening to the signals coming in through the loop overhead. A flickering light makes the signals visible so they can be read across the room.

The principle of the loop antenna is well known. As the loop is turned the signals come in stronger or weaker. When the signals are weakest, the loop is at right angles to the direction from which the signals are coming. When the signals come in strongest, the loop is turned directly toward their source and it is a simple matter to turn the ship in the same direction.

The America was kept facing the unfortunate Florida by the guidance of this compass. Its three radio operators, headed by Chief Operator Nelson M. Smith, were constantly on the job so that at no time did the America lose track of the Florida's signals.

MONOPOLY SUIT IS QUASHED ON MERITS. CLAIM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The resolution requesting the federal trade commission to turn over to the attorney general all the testimony in the case against the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric company and six other companies alleging monopoly and unfair competition in violation of the anti-trust laws, is founded upon "an implication of fact entirely erroneous," Manton Davis, vice president and general counsel of the Radio corporation, said.

The full text of Davis' statement follows:

"An implication of fact entirely erroneous is the foundation and the basis of the resolution introduced by Senator Dill in the Senate and by Representative Davis in the House.

Wrong Implication

"The resolution implies that the federal trade commission on Dec. 19, 1928, dismissed the proceeding then pending against the General Electric company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the Radio Corporation of America and others, on the ground that the federal trade commission had no jurisdiction of the matters complained of.

"The proceedings before the federal trade commission and the order of dismissal entered by it support no such conclusion. The proceedings were dismissed by the concurrence of four of the commissioners, one of whom announced that he concurred for the reason that the commission was without jurisdiction to enter an effective order. The fact that three other commissioners concurring found no occasion to qualify the basis for their concurrence conclusively indicates that the respondents' motion to dismiss 'because of lack of sufficient proof,' as well as for lack of jurisdiction, had been sustained.

Lack of Proof

"The complaint was filed January 24, 1924, and thereafter the commission for four years took testimony all over the United States. The testimony covered 16,967 pages and was finally concluded in 1928.

"Shortly after the commission had concluded its voluminous testimony, the corporations concerned, on the record which the commission itself had made and without taking any testimony on their own behalf, set the case down for a hearing on the ground that the evidence taken did not support the complaint and on the further ground that the commission was without jurisdiction.

"Voluminous briefs were filed and a full argument was had. More than five-sixths of the briefs and arguments were directed at the issue of the failure of the commission's proof. After a deliberate consideration of briefs and arguments the commission dismissed the complaint without calling on the corporations concerned to produce any testimony.

"The record cannot support any other conclusion than that after four years of earnest effort and 17,000 pages of testimony the federal trade commission could not find sufficient evidence to justify conclusions that the corporations concerned had violated the laws of the United States relating to trusts, monopolies and unfair competition."

Trades Group Is Little Concerned Over Radio Board

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 7.—The life or death of the federal radio commission is a matter of small concern to the Radio Manufacturers association, said Bond P. Geddes, after a trip to Washington, where he held conferences.

Mr. Geddes said:

"The sentiment regarding the life or death of the commission is scrambled. There seems to be an indifference on the part of congress and also in radio circles. However, the radio manufacturers are perfectly agreeable to try the commission for another year.

"The current situation is very much involved politically. Some of the politicians apparently want to kill the commission, so to speak, by tying the bill to extend its life up with more radio legislation, which will no doubt lead to a jam and a final blocking of the bill at the final session of congress.

"No one seems to be particularly worried, because all realize that should the control of broadcasting pass to the department of commerce, it will be in able hands, as it was previous to the creation of the commission."

SLUMBER PILLOWS

Many people who do not like to sleep on pillows get cold in the neck at night. A very good way to keep the wind from going down the neck is to use a tiny slumber pillow made of down and very sparsely filled so it will be flat.

Transatlantic telephone service to Vienna was opened on November 2. Austria is the eleventh European country to be worked by telephone from North American points.

HEARD AGAIN

Lovers of Victor Herbert heard on the evening of February 4 Eleanor Painter, the well-known prima donna and original "Princess Pat." She starred in the Vitaphone Jubilee hour, heard on a coast-to-coast network of 27 stations in the Columbia Broadcasting system.

SIEBERLINGS TO GIVE LISTENERS TREAT TONIGHT

With the tap of a baton which will be heard from Maine to the Golden Gate through 38 stations of the National Broadcasting company's red and Pacific coast networks, the Sieberling hour will startle the millions of listeners-in throughout the country, who dial their hookup tonight with a surprise program. The tap of that baton—in the hands of an outstanding maestro of the orchestra, Erno Rapee—will inaugurate a special series of four programs and introduce to listeners-in the world's largest commercial broadcasting orchestra, comprising over fifty internationally known musicians.

These surprise performances have been arranged. It is announced, in response to a deluge of requests from listeners-in all over the country that the Sieberling Singers do instrumentally what they have done with success vocally—modernize the classics with their original transcriptions. The new giant orchestra, under the guest direction of Rapee, promises to do just that.

If could print give some inkling of what a program will sound like when played by a 50-piece concert orchestra, the Sieberling Singers' program deserves to keep several million listeners-in close to their loud speakers. It promises as its first instrumental original a melody of the best-known melodies of Fritz Kreisler, especially arranged and transcribed by Rapee under the title of "Kreisleriana." It has never been played before. It promises, too, an arrangement for five clarinets of Burleigh's "Deep River" and the appearance on the Sieberling network of a new guest star, Elizabeth Lennox, the famous operatic contralto of radio, who will sing Saint Saens' "Amour, Viens Aider" from "Samson and Delilah," and "Just A-Wearyin' for You" by Carle Jacobs Bond. It promises Phil Ohman and Victor Arden playing "Sonny Boy," on their two pianos, and to top off, two other orchestral numbers, the prelude to the third act of Wagner's "Lohengrin" and "Cavatina" by Raff.

It if could be made to rotate fast enough, a thousand horsepower might be transmitted by means of an ordinary lead pencil.

NEW SPEAKERS OWE MUCH TO POWER TUBES

Few radio listeners realize the extent to which they are indebted to modern power tubes for realistic reproduction.

Of late much has been said of the improvements which have been made in loud speakers and the greatly improved reproduction which has resulted from such developments. Back of all this development in loudspeakers, however, lies the constant research and experimentation in increased power output of modern tubes.

Most radio listeners remember the first loudspeakers which consisted simply of large headphone units attached to comparatively small metal or bakelite horns.

Fairly Good Volume

The volume obtained with some of these old loudspeakers was fairly good, but the range of frequencies to which they responded was very limited, and resulted in the "tinny" or "canned" variety of reproduction, because of the absence of the low notes and harmonics which give depth and naturalness to reproduction. To produce a given volume more energy is required to reproduce a low note of about 20 cycles than one of 1,000 cycles.

One of the limiting factors which prevented the development of loudspeakers capable of reproducing the whole range of musical frequencies was the fact that the energy required to reproduce the very low frequencies could not be supplied by the limited power output of the old type amplifiers. Since the amount of power obtainable from the amplifier was limited by the undistorted output of the last audio stage tube, the construction of loudspeakers capable of responding to a wide range of frequencies was seriously hampered.

Barriers Removed

The development of modern power tubes removed the barriers which held back the development of speakers capable of reproducing a wide range of frequencies.

With the type of tube in the last audio stage the construction of the loudspeaker was limited to a sensitive speaker which could not respond to the range of frequencies required for realistic reproduction.

With the almost unlimited power output possible with the new power tubes large air-column and dynamic units can be used to give great volume over the whole musical range without introducing any appreciable distortion.

TO ENJOY PROSPERITY

"Nineteen twenty-nine as a radio year will be so far ahead of 1928 as to defy comparison," is the recent remark of H. G. Ertrom, executive secretary of the Federated Radio Trades association.

BUYERS SHOULD TEST SPEAKERS. EXPERT CLAIMS

By RAY H. MANSON
Chief Engineer Stromberg-Carlson Company

For the prospective buyer, the selection of a good radio reproducer is fully as important as a good receiving set. Unless the reproducer is of the highest quality, the excellence of the best receiver will be wasted. There are good speakers of various types on the market and the discriminating person will listen to demonstrations before making a decision. There are several things he may keep in mind in judging what he hears.

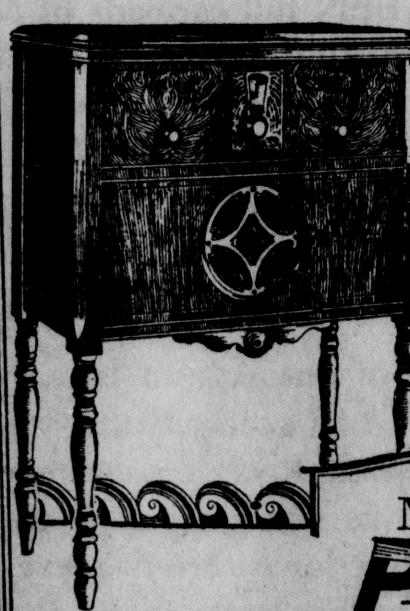

One is that the voice, especially the male voice, is a better criterion than instrumental music. The average person can more easily tell whether a person is talking naturally than whether orchestral music is being reproduced naturally. The male speaking voice is capable of being transmitted with great naturalness and if it sounds unnatural as it emerges from the receiving equipment, the prospective buyer may be sure that the receiver or loud speaker, or both, are at fault. He may also be sure that music, too, would be distorted, although such distortion would not be so obvious.

In listening to music, it is better, for purposes of judging loud speaker quality, to listen to good standard or classical music. Jazz orchestras put in so many odd effects and strange noises that it is difficult to tell whether some of these are orchestral "effects" or defects in the loudspeaker.

If the demonstration is confined to music in the middle of the musical scale, then it can be reproduced fairly accurately by almost any receiver or loudspeaker, as good audio reproduction is easy to obtain in the middle register. The listener to a demonstration, therefore, should tune in to programs where the higher and lower ends of the scale are considered in order to give the speaker a real test.

KFRC TO BROADCAST 'JOURNEY TO HADES'

Upon the insistent requests of many of its listeners who heard the program more than a year ago, KFRC will repeat "A Journey to Hades" between 9 and 10 o'clock tonight. With interwoven diabolical music, the program will be presented in a humorous vein. Most of the unpleasant characters whom we met in every day life will be greeted at the end of a fantastic chute by Satan, who acts as master-of-ceremonies. They will subsequently be assigned to their various laborious and uncomfortable tasks.

ASK GOVERNMENT AID

PARIS, Feb. 7. — (UP)—Post card manufacturers are making a final effort to revive the dying industry of printing picture post-cards.

They have petitioned the French government to lower the postage rate on cards from two to one cent in an effort to interest the public again in that form of correspondence.

The manufacturers produced statistics to show that whereas 442,000,000 cards were mailed in France annually, several years ago, the figure has fallen to 156,000,000 annually.

Arnold Johnson's Orchestra Great Majestic Feature

"The Joy of Living" might properly be the meaningful title of the musical program to be broadcast during the Majestic radio hour, commencing at 9 o'clock eastern standard time each Sunday night, over the Columbia chain of 47 stations.

Arnold Johnson and his Majestic orchestra live and love their music, and to hear them over the air is to enjoy musical harmony that rings true and that you can actually feel. Arnold Johnson's interpretation of the old songs and tunes, as well as those very modern, has that indefinable something that appeals to our joy and pleasure in being alive in this wonderful radio age.

THREE ORCHESTRAS ON AIR SAME NIGHT

The all-coast Saturday night dance program broadcast over the Pacific coast network of the American Broadcasting company, featuring the orchestras led by Earl Burnett in Los Angeles, Anson Meyers in San Francisco and Victor Meyers in Seattle—exponents of "modern American music" will be brought to a close February 23 with the three orchestras on the air the same night, it was announced today by the officials of the Union Oil company, which has sponsored this unusual musical treat.

Up to the present time the three-hour dance programs have been presented by the individual orchestras on alternate Saturday nights.

There will be two three-hour Saturday night dance programs before the grand finale February 23, Earl Burnett and his Baltimore orchestra the following Saturday.

O. H. CALDWELL TO RESIGN NEXT MONTH. BELIEF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Having hinted several times that he would like to resign to resume his editorial work with the McGraw-Hill Publishing company of New York, Commissioner Orestes H. Caldwell has decided that "now is the time," and will not seek reappointment, even if the White bill is enacted to extend the life of the commission for another year, until March 15, 1930.

Caldwell was editor of "Radio Retailer," published by the company. He accepted appointment by President Coolidge in the expectation he would not be away from his editorial work for long. But he has been at his task for almost two years and each time he tried to detach himself from his present duties some radio problem would arise and he would stay in office.

Played Leading Part

During part of his tenure he was being paid by the McGraw-Hill company the difference between his salary as federal radio commissioner and the larger pay he received from the publishing company as editor, but after this fact was aired in congressional hearings the difference payments were discontinued, at Caldwell's request, so he has an added reason to return to his life work.

During his tenure Commissioner Caldwell has played a leading part, and has earned much respect for his frankness, even from those who disagreed with him on the policies he advocated. He has been an enthusiastic supporter of high power and cleared channels, has freely admitted shortcomings of the commission, advocates that its life as an administrative body be permitted to expire, without extension, and has stated that little of an emergency nature remains to be solved.

Has Been Storm Center

Caldwell is a radio experimenter himself, and his home in New York is equipped with many novel radio and other electrical devices, some of them of his own invention, many at least of his own devising.

Congressional storms have swirled about Commissioner Caldwell's head, and his very confirmation was the cause of heated debate in the senate.

With his engineering knowledge he has been able to get a good grasp of the radio problems.

Louis G. Caldwell, general counsel of the commission, not related to Commissioner Caldwell, recently resigned, but had to defer the effective date, because of legal problems of the commission in which he was specially well versed. Counsel Caldwell is a Chicago lawyer, specializing in radio work, and will return to private practice, effective February 23.

CHAVEZ, WELL ALONG ROAD TO FISTIC SUCCESS, ENCOUNTERS DANGEROUS FOE IN TEGNOVITZ

By RINGSIDER

In the first of a series of bouts he and his handlers hope will carry him through the cluttered paths of mediocrity to the top of his profession, Zenaydo Chavez, sensational young Santa Ana welterweight, encounters tomorrow night a shrewd, calculating, ring wise veteran—Fred Tegnovitz—in the main event at Henry T. Foust's southside Orange County Athletic club.

Tegnovitz may be going back. His fists may have lost some of the chained lightning which produced many an unfortunate opponent and from the loss that allowed him to go 12 rounds with the great Sammy Mandell, time, perhaps, has exacted its toll. But Tegnovitz is not a punch-drunk old timer, looking for a place to light for $75. He has many more good fights in his system and if Chavez takes him in stride the door of plenty will be wide open for this curly-haired, mild-mannered, likeable little Mexican.

There are those who fear that Chavez is being pushed in against too good an opponent at this stage of his brilliant but brief career and that a severe beating might ruin his prospects. But Jerry McCarthy, Zenaydo's manager, is a smart old trapper in the fistic business and he is confident the bout will do his young charge a lot of good.

Bert Colima, the finest middleweight developed in Southern California in the decade, also will be in Chavez's corner and Colima is sure to lure to the arena an army of his countrymen with whom he is an idol. Deeply impressed with Chavez's potentialities, Colima wants to see how the lad works against a boxer of Tegnovitz's caliber.

Chinese Quintet Easy For Trojans

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—An all-star Chinese basketball team, playing its first game on a tour of the United States, was defeated last night by the University of Southern California, 67 to 33. The invaders were outweighted 15 pounds to the man.

Don Cagemen Defeat Glendale, 40-26

YOU'VE FLASHY S. A. FORWARD HAS 17 POINTS

Santa Ana's Dons were back in the thick of the fight for second place in the Southern California Junior College conference race today following their 40 to 26 victory over Glendale at Glendale last night in a game which started as a slow, uninteresting exhibition but finished like a real basketball battle.

The score at the end of the half was 14 to 8 in favor of Santa Ana and in the second half the Glendale quintet was never able to approach nearer than five points. In the first half Glendale managed to assume the lead for a few moments, being ahead at one time 8 to 7 but Coach Bill Foote's charges came right back, assumed the lead again and never were headed.

Mearl Youel, star forward of the Santa Ana team, was high point man and was in much better form than in the previous game with Long Beach here. He scored a total of 17 points, making eight field goals and one free throw. His percentage of successful shots was approximately .333 as he attempted 26 baskets and made 8. Wilson of Glendale was the second high scorer with 11 points.

The Dons were forced to wait nearly two hours after arriving in Glendale before they could begin play because the floor was occupied by two Glendale City League teams. Glendale showed up a little better than it has heretofore but still was far from being as good as any of the other teams in the conference. Glendale lost two good men this semester and this weakened its team considerably. However, the Dons were shy both Rust and White and the "honors" were about even with the conditions of the last meeting of the two games. Rust is ineligible on account of scholastic difficulties and White because of previous service.

The Dons seem to have pulled out of their slump pretty well and if they keep going they should have little difficulty in taking both their remaining games with Compton and Fullerton. Although the squad has dwindled to ten men, these are all capable and are able to keep up their end of the game. Coach Foote expressed himself as being quite pleased with the Dons' offense last night but still maintained that their defense bogged down at times. He intended to work on this today and increase the effectiveness of the guarding before the game at Compton tomorrow night.

Foote used four substitutes last night, giving some of his men a chance to get warm when it looked like the Dons were comfortably in the lead. Kolkhorst did better against Glendale than any time previously. He accounted for four points for the local team as did Beatty and Tanaka.

The lineup: Santa Ana (40) (26) Glendale Youel (17).....F..... (2) Robinson Hogue (6).....F..... (5) Hlatt Valentine.....G..... (4) Richards Sweetnam.....G..... (2) Brooks Beatty (4).....G..... (11) Wilson

Santa Ana substitutes: (4) for Youel, Dews (5) for Hogue, Dutton for Valentine, Kolkhorst (4) for Sweetnam. Glendale—Mead for Robinson, Cherry (2) for Hlatt, Levell for Richards, Eubanks for Brooks.

SAINT 'CEES' FEAR DEFEAT TOMORROW

Without the valuable services of Lynn Chamberlain, star forward, the chances for a Class C victory over Pasadena appeared slight at Santa Ana high school today and the locals will enter the game tomorrow night the underdog.

Pasadena has lost every game this year while the "Angels" have one victory, that registered last week over Glendale, 23 to 12. Before that, the Saints lost to South Pasadena, 11 to 10; Whittier, 18 to 15; and Long Beach, 21 to 9. Pasadena lost to Whittier, 19 to 12; to South Pasadena, 15 to 12 and to Alhambra, 11 to 10.

If Captain Billy Gibbs rings up as many points as he did in the last game, the locals should win easily. Gibbs made five baskets in a row against Glendale. Chamberlain got the faculty ax after midyear examination and will be ineligible for the rest of the semester. Lindsay or Lawrence will take his place. Adair Rucker will jump center while Larry Lane and Duane Rowland will play the guard posts.

Bass Loses Bout On Foul In Third

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 7.—After knocking down Henry Leonard, of Chicago, twice in two rounds, Benny Bass, Philadelphia featherweight, lost the decision on a foul in the third round but his scheduled 10-round bout last night.

Bruin Coach To Address Tustin Boys

Bill Spaulding, head football coach at the University of California at Los Angeles, will be the principal speaker at the banquet tomorrow night of the Tustin high school Lettermen's club.

Howard Jones, University of Southern California mentor, who was to have appeared, sent his "regrets" to Coach Bill Cole and Spaulding, who is known far and wide as a witty and entertaining after dinner speaker will "bat" for the Trojan skipper.

Joe Fleming, captain of the Bruin eleven last season, also is expected to attend the banquet at which several new eligibles for the Tustin club will be initiated.

SENATORS HAVE FINE MATERIAL FOR 1929 RACE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

(This is the seventh of a series by George Kirksey analyzing the new strength of major league baseball clubs. Tomorrow, The Philadelphia Nationals.—Sport Editor's note.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The Washington Senators have the makings of a great baseball machine in the 32 players assembled for the 1929 campaign.

An outlay of something like $250,000 for new talent by Clark Griffith has placed plenty of material at the disposal of Walter Johnson in his return to major league baseball as manager of the Senators.

One need not look much farther than the Senators for a club to give the Yankees a run for their money if this collection of high-priced talent does not fall down.

With "Old Barney" at the helm, harmony, for one thing, is certain to reign once more in the ranks of the players who somehow lost their comradeship for "Bucky" Harris during last season.

Must Replace Harris Second base and the pitching staff need bolstering. One of Johnson's biggest problems will be to find a second sacker to replace Harris. Six high-class minor league men have been brought up to try for the second base assignment. The most promising of these are John Stewart from Birmingham, Minter Hayes from Minneapolis and Charley Gooch from Little Rock.

Stewart appears to be the outstanding man with a record of 60 stolen bases in the Southern league last season and a batting average of .316. Gooch batted .357 and Hayes .257.

Judge at first, Ossie Bluege at short and "Buddy" Myer at third base are slated for the other infield spots. The Senators gave five players to the Red Sox to get Myer, rated the best third baseman in the American league. Bluege, another star at the hot corner, will be shifted to shortstop. Liska is fine prospect.

There is no more brilliant pitching prospect among the season's crop of young players breaking into the majors than Ad Liska. Griffith paid Minneapolis $20,000 for Liska but the "old fox" expects him to be worth 10 times that much before the end of the season. Liska, only 22, won 20 games and lost but four last season. He is said to be another Carl Mays, with an underhand speed ball faster than the former Yankee star. Liska never has mastered a curve ball, but he is trying to perfect one in training in his backyard at Dwight, Neb.

Guy Cantrell, who won 20 games and lost 19 for Baltimore, and Paul McCullough, who won 13 games and lost 13 for Toledo, are other pitching hopes.

The Senators have no outfield worries with "Goose" Goslin, the American league batting champion, Sam West, Emile Barnes and Edgar Rice available, to say nothing of two classy-looking newcomers, Spencer Harris from Minneapolis and Melbern Simons from Birmingham. Harris, valued at $20,000 by Griffith, batted .327 and Simons, priced at $10,000, batted .310.

To "Muddy" Ruel, one of the best receivers in the American league, and Benny Tate, the Senators have added three young catchers. They are Cliff Bolton, who batted .403 for the High Point club of the Piedmont league, Albert Boal, who batted .344 for Nashville, and Ed Kenna, who came from Minneapolis to join the Senators last season.

BERKELEY, Calif., Feb. 7.—University of Santa Clara upset the dope and beat California, 32 to 26, in Harmon gymnasium here last night.

OUT OF THE PAST

Baseball will be played as long as sport exists. Public idols of the diamond will come and go, but there ever be another Mike Donlin?

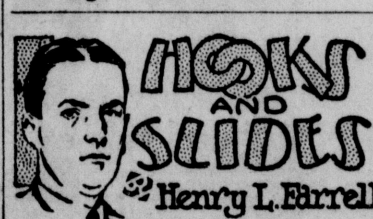

This picture was taken some 20-odd years ago when Donlin was cavorting in the outfield for the New York Giants. The lady at his side is his wife, Mabel Hite, in her husky husband was a ball player. Mike was one of the most popular baseball stars of his day. The fans from the bleachers to boxes rooted for him and sang his praises.

Today he is in Hollywood, affiliated with the moving picture industry. His bride of long ago has passed away.

S. A. VARSITY PLAYS PASADENA IN LEAGUE MATCH TOMORROW

If Santa Ana can get some of its big guns going, the Pasadena Millionaires may be out of some spare money tomorrow night when the two rival basketball varsities hook up in a regular Coast Preparatory league encounter at Pasadena starting at 8:30 o'clock.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

An Atlanta furniture store offered a handsome bedroom suit to the first member of the 1928 Georgia Tech football team who is married this year. And an Atlanta sports writer threatened to shoot on sight or poison any one of the players who gets married before the Tournament of Roses game in 1930. Tech is going back there apparently. Ellsworth Armstrong, the Dartmouth football captain-elect, is a married man. Promoters and press agents can't exploit a prize fight in Pennsylvania as a "prude fight". The state commission don't let 'em. "Red" Barron may take Don Miller's place at Georgia Tech. And that would give Tech a graduate staff. Jackie Fields turned down ten grand to fight Gorilla Jones in Cleveland. And Rene De Vos, the toy of Tony Biddle, had a good excuse. He said he was too heavy for the Gorilla.

ONE VOTE FOR SHARKEY

Pa Stribling, on a scouting expedition, was one of the witnesses at the recent Sharkey-Christner thing in New York. The father of Willie, who has a date with Sharkey in Miami this month, was not one of the reported many who thought that the 35-year-old rubber puddler of Akron should have copped the decision from Sharkey.

Pa, who made a lot of charts and graphs of the big Boston noise maker, marked down seven rounds for Sharkey and awarded only two to the old man from Akron, as Dan Morgan calls the town. "Maybe I was a little biased," Pa added naively. "Because I wanted Sharkey to win so badly." Pa thinks that his boy Willie is a clinch to win because Sharkey can be hit by a right hand and, apparently, he thinks that his boy Willie can hit as hard as Christner.

WASN'T EVEN ORIGINAL Pa chuckled when he told the New York sports writers about the wire that Willie had sent to Sharkey before the fight. Willie's well wishes were as follows: "Don't let this big bum hit you on the chin. Save it for me."

The Striblings apparently have been told about the goat getting

Babe Is 35 Years Old; In Florida

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Somewhere down in Florida, Babe Ruth celebrated his 35th birthday today.

Born at Baltimore, February 7, 1894, Ruth broke into the majors as a pitcher with the Boston Red Sox in 1914. He was sold to the New York Yankees in 1919 for a reported price of $125,000.

A three-year contract calling for $70,000 a year for Babe's services expires next fall.

Third round games in the Santa Ana City Basketball league will be completed tonight when the undefeated J. and N. shop of Anaheim and the Santa Ana 20-30 club quintets collide in the Anaheim gymnasium.

Two of the week's three contests were played on the Y. M. C. A. floor here last night, the A. E. Hawley sporting goods store scoring its third consecutive victory, 22 to 16, at the expense of the Orange County Garage company, and the Hill and Carden Clothiers breaking into the win column with a 20 to 19 triumph over the T. J. Neal sporting goods quintet.

The Hawleys did most of their damage in the first half, running into a 13 to 8 lead which they maintained successfully in the second half. The Auto Salesmen were limited to four baskets during the game, making half their points on free throws.

Nip and tuck from beginning to end, the Hill and Carden-Neal struggle was won in the second half. The squads were tied at 14 up in the first half but the Clothiers turned in three baskets in the second half as against two baskets and one free throw by the Neals.

BROWNS MUST BE FEARED IN COMING CHASE

BY HENRY L. FARRELL (NEA Service Sports Editor)

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—The open season for claiming, running weeks ahead of schedule, is upon us. The usually reticent and conservative Connie Mack exposed his head first and took a bow as the manager of the 1929 American League champions.

While the veteran Mack was admitting that his Philadelphia Athletics were going to win the pennant some of the other boys shook off their modesty and said a few kind words for themselves.

Ed Barrows, business manager of the Yankees, agreed with Mack that several teams in the league had been strengthened since last fall and that competition will be keener and that, after considering all circumstances, the Yankees hoped to win the pennant again.

"Howling Dan" Howley, whose magic wand worked last year on the St. Louis Browns, agreed with Mack and Barrows that several teams have been strengthened since last fall and that competition will be keener, and he ended with a prayer that no bad injuries will bust up his club.

Detroit Adds Words

"Bucky" Harris, in a new spot as the manager of the Detroit Tigers, agreed with Mack and Barrows and Howley that several teams have been strengthened since last fall and that competition will be keener, and he added a few words. "Several clubs have been strengthened, but we have added more strength than any other club in the league and we had a good ball club to build on. If it is an act to claim the pennant let me in on it, too," he said.

Mack thinks that a stronger Detroit, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago club will make things harder for the Yankees to win as many games as they won in the first half of the season last year and that a year's experience on some of his young fellows will enable him to get away to a better start.

The Yankees hope that the lame arms of Pennock, Moore and Lazzeri are cured and that they will escape the disaster that those lame arms threatened them with in the last quarter of the 1928 race.

Yanks, A's Not Improved Neither the Yanks nor the Athletics have been improved since last season, if a superficial glance is accurate. The Yanks can't be sure about those arms, or about Koenig at third. Durocher at second or Larry at short. And if the Athletics are improved a lot of managers would like to know where Mack got the cure for weak hearts.

The Red Sox have a lot of new faces. But that doesn't mean anything. The Indians have two new outfielders, but you have to have somebody to throw the ball in any league. And if the White Sox are a better team you will have to

'Y' VOLLEYBALL TEAM LOSES TO PASADENA, 4-1

Making their first appearance in the fast Class A Southern California Volleyball league with a team composed partially of new and inexperienced players, the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. suffered a 4 to 1 defeat at Pasadena last night. The Pasadenans won the first game, 15 to 4, the second 15 to 8, the third, 15 to 12, and the fifth, 15 to 8. Santa Ana took the fourth one, 15 to 7.

Winner of the inland division title for three years running, the Santa Anans were grouped this winter in the major section with Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena and two San Diego teams.

Jack Baker, Warren Fletcher, Dr. J. M. Bulpitt, Malcolm Severance and Ray Miles, all first stringers, were absent from the local lineup for one reason or another and Coach R. R. Russick's squad was composed of Harold Smith, Kemper Taylor, Bill Taylor, Lyle Forman, Coleman Hickey, Dr. Emmett Ralft, A. G. Green, Carl Edgar and H. A. Smith.

Santa Ana will meet Long Beach Y. M. C. A. here next Friday night after which will come contests, in order, with San Diego here, Los Angeles here, San Diego Spartans here, Pasadena here, Long Beach at Long Beach, Los Angeles at Los Angeles and San Diego Spartans at San Diego.

The schedule will keep Russick's athletes busy until the first week of April.

stunts that some of the old-timers used to pull. And, if we're not mistaken, the message was an exact copy of the one that George Engle used to send around when he was handling Harry Grebe.

BUT IT'S WARM IN FLORIDA

Billy Evans, who ought to know something about the subject, does not agree with the theory that spring training is necessary for an umpire.

"All a qualified umpire needs is exercise to keep down his weight and he can get that in a gymnasium," he said. "One look at a fast ball and a curve ought to be enough to get his eyes in shape. Working in 20 or 30 games before the regular season starts is nothing but an unnecessary strain that will be felt in the second half of the season."

HIS FUTURE WAS PAST

Joe Cox, a star guard on the Ohio State basketball team for several seasons, quit the squad recently and joined a semi-pro team in Columbus.

He wanted another letter and all that and he loved his Alma Mater but he couldn't see the coach's way of doing things, he told friends in Dayton.

"The coach said the team wasn't going any place this year and that he had to build for the future," he said. "So he pulled me out of a regular position and sat me on the bench and put in Fester and Larkins to get them some experience for the next two years. I wasn't going to sit on the bench, so I just quit."

STORING UP THE RAZZ

The Down Town Coaching association of Columbus, which rode Dr. Jack Wilce out of the coaching job at Ohio State, accepted passively the inauguration of a new football administration headed by Sam Williamson, George Hauser and Don Miller.

"They're just keeping quiet for a year," a Columbus man said recently. "They'll give it to Williamson next fall and give it to him plenty."

In England one out of 200 children is said to be affected by word-blindness.

TROJAN LINEUP IS DECIDED BY SQUAD CONTEST

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Aaron Nibley, Henry Cano, Jesse Mortensen, Captain Lloyd Thomas and Johnny Lehnner will represent the University of Southern California against the U. C. L. A. basketball team Saturday night at the Olympic auditorium and therein lies a tale.

Dissatisfied with the showing of his first team in conference games so far this season, Coach Leo Calland lined up his varsity squad at a practice session last night and spoke thusly:

"Subs, here's your chance. We will hold a 15 minute scrimmage between what has been the first string and a team composed of Gordon Boelter and Frank Smith at forward, Henry Walbot at center, and Ray Harris and Jim Truher at guard. If these bench warmers can beat the first string, they will henceforth be the varsity and Nibs, Henry, Mort, Lloyd and John can see future conference games from the sidelines."

For 15 minutes the most furious battle that has been waged for years in the Trojan gym took place and when the time limit was reached the score stood at 11-all. "We can't start both teams against U. C. L. A.," said Calland. "Play another basket to decide it."

There has been little engagements at Bull Run, the Marne, Verdun, Waterloo and Blenheim, but for a real battle the next five minutes took all prizes. Victory for the subs meant their chance for varsity letters, while defeat for the first stringers meant the humiliation of the bench for men that were rated champions last year.

Finally after much jumping, rushing, scrambling, swinging and falling on one's ear, Harris grabbed the ball for the subs and sent a long shot from the middle of the floor that looked like two points. The ball hit the hoop, tried to go in and then bounced out. Mortensen went up after it as it came down, found himself clear, dribbled down the field and heaved one through the hoop just as Truher, guard for the subs and an end on Howard Jones' football squad last season, missed a flying tackle in a desperate effort to save the day.

It was an historic moment and some day Mr. Calland will tell his grandchildren all about it and will conclude, "And that is why the first team started against U. C. L. A. 'way back in twenty-nine."

But of course just what the Trojans first team will do to U. C. L. A. is a paragraph in history that is yet to be written.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Walter Mails will be with the San Francisco Seals again this year. The "Great" one signed his contract here Wednesday. Mails won 20 games for the Seals last year.

Engagement Of Suzanne To Be Revealed Soon

NICE, France, Feb. 7.—The engagement of Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, to Baldwin M. Baldwin of California, will be announced soon after Baldwin is granted his divorce, friends of the family said today.

It also was learned that one of the objects of the recent trip to the United States was to confer with Baldwin's mother and wife regarding the divorce.

CANZONERI KAYOES SANGOR IN SEVENTH

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Tony Canzoneri may have ended the fistic career of Joey Sangor last night but in so doing he sent from the ring a fighter who will be admired more in defeat than ever he was in victory.

Rarely has Chicago seen an exhibition of gameness that would equal that which Sangor put up before Tony knocked him out in the seventh round. The Milwaukee boy fought five rounds on sheer nerve, and he took the hardest beating ever administered here.

Canzoneri clearly was the better fighter. He punched Sangor hard in the first two rounds, but the climax came late in the second when Tony beat Joey to the floor with a series of rights and lefts to the jaw. Sangor was out cold but the bell saved him.

LOUGHRAN-EMANUEL REMATCH PROPOSED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Possibility of a re-match between Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion, and Armand Emanuel for an outdoor bout at Wrigley field here this spring was under consideration by local promoters today.

Promoters feel that the re-match would prove to be a great drawing card inasmuch as Loughran's 10-round decision over the San Francisco scrapper Tuesday night was still a matter of controversy in pugdom here.

MOHLER LEADS LIST OF STARS ENTERING TROY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Several new faces were seen today at Harvard field at the University of Southern California with the opening of the spring semester and with the reporting for track by a number of prep athletes who have just entered the university.

Among the new candidates for places on the track and field squad are Albert Vignolo, who formerly ran the hurdles for Los Angeles Polytechnic high; James McNeil, quarter-miler from Oakland Technical high; Dick Barber, broad jumper from Long Beach, and Charles Anderson, sprinter and former track captain and Hollywood high school.

Orville Mohler, who has just entered U. S. C. from Alhambra high school where he was a member of the football, basketball, baseball, track and boxing teams, in addition to being president of the senior class and the student body and commissioner of athletics, will probably report for freshman baseball instead of track. He registered this week in the college of engineering with a view to preparing for naval aeronautics as his future calling.

Among other prep athletes who have just registered at Southern California are Howard Tipton, full-back from Belmont high school; Duncan McAlphine, quarterback and captain of the Inglewood football team last season, and Clayton Parker, grid star for Lancaster.

Pete Sauer Wins From Davis Court

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Pete Sauer of Glendale, Ariz., defeated Dick Davis court, 215-pound Kansas wrestler, two out of three falls in the feature match at the Olympic auditorium last night. After losing the first fall in one hour 19 minutes and 25 seconds by a series of headlocks, Sauer came back strong to win the next two falls in 22 minutes 35 seconds and 15 minutes and 15 seconds.

JAPANESE STAR SENSATION OF BILLIARD PLAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Kinrey Matsuyama, deft Japanese cue star, was out in front today in the race for the 18.2 balkline billiards championship of the world. Matsuyama, with two victories and no defeats, held the mathematical edge over Jake Schaefer, Chicago, who plays his second match of the championship tournament today.

Matsuyama and Schaefer are the only remaining undefeated players of the six entered in the tournament.

The diminutive Japanese star defeated Felix Grange of France yesterday afternoon for his second victory of the tourney, 400 to 218. He played a consistent game throughout and his expert ballline nursing resulted in high runs of 34, 60, 57 and 64. Grange's best inning was the 10th in which he clicked off 72 points before missing a difficult shot.

In the evening Edouard Horamans, of Belgium, defending champion, won his first game, defeating Welker Cochran, of New York, 400 to 290. The victory returned the titleholder to the running and critics agree that he will prove one of the most formidable figures in the tournament before it is completed.

TIGERS MAY PRESS ATHLETICS, YANKS

take the peppy chatter of Lena Blackburne as enough proof for it. It's too early for one of those expert things to tell the managers who is right and wrong about this matter. The expert has to do his experting just before the season opens or do it twice, and once is enough.

Rather Than Be Shot If we were to be shot now unless we said something we would say that Master Bucky Harris seems to be in a swell spot to do more more of that boy wonder stuff. All he needs to raise a lot of devil next season in the league is the good will and the co-operation of Mule Uhle. That fellow might win 25 ball games.

We happen to know that, in the early part of last season, Master Harris had been given to understand that he could pick the spot he liked best in the league and that Washington would not stand in his way.

And, we happen to know, Master Harris didn't even look around or glance at the league standing.

"Detroit," he said to himself and a friend or two, "is the strongest club in the league next to the Yankees. I like that ball club. Needs patching only in a couple of spots."

COUNTY GROUP ORGANIZED TO FIGHT DISEASE

"Half the world doesn't know how the other half lives," is a familiar old saying, but it is doubtful if even half of Orange county's 118,000 residents have any idea of what struggles and agonies are undergone by a little group from the other half, in seeking to live under handicaps that would shock the most dauntless. These are the children who form the county's orthopedic cases, and if you are a bit discontented because you can't have a new car this spring, or have had to postpone your trip to Hawaii or to Europe for a year, or can't build the new home you want so much, drop in at Orange County hospital some Saturday morning for the weekly clinic where these little people are treated.

The chances are 100 to 1 that you will be thankful for your last year's model in cars, gladly postpone your far travels in favor of seeing the beautiful spots nearer home, and gaze affectionately at your own little home, whose walls perhaps resound to the happy laughter of children, well, strong and normal in every active muscle and bone of their rounded young bodies.

If you can picture sturdy small "Junior," or "Sister," who is so exactly like her mother, unable to romp and play in this golden California sunshine, because of little spine curved and weak from meningitis, or a congenitally twisted and deformed leg, or perhaps hip bones weakened and diseased with tuberculosis, then you would realize the value of work that is being accomplished right here in our midst, by a group of men and women, striving daily for race betterment. For the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange county has been organized, with Earl Morrow as president, just to bring relief to children suffering from some one of these causes. And out at Orange County hospital, Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, superintendent, and his capable staff of phys-

CRIPPLED CHILDREN MADE WELL AGAIN

An idea of the varied types of orthopedic cases treated each Saturday at the free clinic in Orange County hospital, may be gained by studying this picture where eight of the child patients are shown with the mother of one of them, (on the extreme left) and a group of workers including Earl Morrow, (in the center) president of the Crippled Children's Relief association. Those in the back row are, from left to right, Miss Gertrude Crowell, superintendent and physiotherapist of the association; Miss Vada Freeburg of the information desk at the hospital; Mrs. Vivian Henry, in charge of the clinic; Miss Lillian Fitzpatrick, director of social service, and C. ## ORANGE COUNTY SHOP TEACHERS HEAR OFFICERS

With three prominent officers of the California Vocational association as guests, the Orange County Shop Teachers' association held its monthly meeting last night at 6:30 o'clock in Ketner's cafe.

President Haywood gave a report of the National Vocational association convention held in Philadelphia last summer. In his trip to the convention, Mr. Haywood visited the Ford factories and trade schools. He pointed out that apprentices work two weeks in the factory and one week in school, and receive $600 a year. After two years of this work, they are admitted to Michigan university after taking one year of history, two years of English and night school.

Fred Brooks, president of the county group, had charge of the meeting last night. The next meeting is to be held March 4 at 6:30 o'clock in the Fullerton high school cafeteria. The officers of the southern section of the C. V. A. are F. S. Weber, president, Los Angeles; R. J. Casey, vice president, Los Angeles, and Charles L. Tibbets, secretary-treasurer, Santa Ana.

BOLIVIA LIFE DESCRIBED IN KIWANIS TALK

Intimate details of life and farming and mining operations of inhabitants of Bolivia were told Kiwanians by J. H. Bennett, mining engineer of San Clemente, in a talk to the club here yesterday.

Bennett passed a number of years in Bolivia, during which time he visited and inspected many sections of that country, and his talk yesterday embraced a recital of his observations and experiences in that country.

He pointed out that in a number of sections, particularly in the rural districts, customs of ancient times prevail. He instanced the pinning of wool and the making of clothing and equipment by hand. Commenting on the spinning of yarn, he said that sheep herders could be seen spinning while wandering with their flocks. Pointing out that sheep raising is one of the big industries, he said that shepherds have superstition against the shearing of sheep and that to this day they would not permit clipping of the wool from the backs of live animals. The wool is gathered only after the wool bearing animal is killed, he declared.

Recounting the incident of the recent trouble between Bolivia and Paraguay, Bennett said that the territory involved is more worthless than desert lands.

Cooking utensils hammered from copper and silver were exhibited by the speaker, some of the pieces shown having been made years ago.

Saxophone numbers by Carl Youel, accompanied on the piano by Miss Mildred Bowes, offered the special musical program arranged by W. L. Duggan, who officiated as program chairman.

The Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, were received into the club as new members. The Rev. George Warner, pastor of the First Methodist church, presenting the two ministers and accepting them into membership in behalf of the club.

Dr. J. E. Paul announced that the anniversary of the founding of the local club would be celebrated on the evening of February 22 with a dinner at Ebell clubhouse. Cards and dancing will follow a conclusion of a program that will be arranged.

S. A. PLAYERS PREPARED FOR SHOW TONIGHT

After last night's hectic session of Santa Ana Community Players in the Yost Spurgeon theater, where the cast of "Her Temporary Husband" was given a final complete working-out by the director, Marian Helm Williams, and the last details of the scenery were completed by Cecil Wilson and his aides, everything promised to be in readiness for the opening performance of the hilarious comedy tonight at Spurgeon theater, where the curtain will rise promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

"I am confident that 'Her Temporary Husband' is going to be one of the season's popular plays," Mrs. Williams declared today. "The cast has proven to be even better than I anticipated, and each member seems to take such a personal interest in seeing that everything moves along smoothly, that I feel that the three performances are going to offer unlimited entertainment to the theater-goers."

Those who have seen some of the rehearsals concur with Mrs. Williams in her opinion, declaring the play to be one of the most amusing and sparkling little comedies ever attempted by the association. The plot, with its pretty girl and her fiancé searching for a possible husband among the aged patients in a sanitarium for incurables, offers many mirth-provoking situations. Just how the girl, who is played by Elaine Wharton Williams, finds herself engaged to a supercilious young lawyer, (played by Lawrence Phillips) pledged to marry an aged and helpless wreck, yet in love with "Tom Burton" (Warren Fletcher) and finally solves the entire problem, forms the entertaining plot. A secondary love story between a clever little nurse (played by Juanita Wright Fletcher) and handsome "Doctor Spencer" (Jack Baker) is refreshing and amusing, while the role of "Jud," as played by Charles Haas, is sheer comedy throughout.

In presenting their plays, members of the Community Players' association are always aided by artists of the city, who provide entertainment between acts. For the current offering, Alan A. Revell, one of the most popular musicians in the community, has consented to give an organ program each night.

Those who have not yet secured their seats for some one of the three performances, may do so at the Santa Ana Book store or at the box office just preceding each night's performance.

MODEL PLANE BUILDING TO BE EXPLAINED

Thrilled by the announcement that the 20-30 club and the Register will launch organization of an aviation club next Saturday at the Walker theater, scores of "boy aviators" in Santa Ana today were enthusiastically planning to become charter members of the club.

Plans were being made at the theater to handle the throng of eager plane designers and it was expected that the gathering at 10 a. m. would represent one of the largest groups of boys ever witnessed here.

The boys are all set for the big event and all over the city today they were eagerly discussing the surprises which will be sprung at the theater.

"Let's go!"

That was the slogan today in every spot where boys gather, and rivalry already was in the air to see who would be the first to see the doors open Saturday morning. "Sure, I'll be there. Why not? It won't cost a cent and we'll all get the inside dope on how to build model planes. Prizes, too! I'm going to find out how to get one!" This was the spirit among the boys, as they counted the hours until the new club gets under way.

According to the announcements made today there will be plenty to keep the boys on their toes, too. "And so, if you want to be in on the biggest thing that has happened for boys in a long time be sure to be on hand Saturday at 10 a. m. when the club 'hops off' on the first leg of its flight," sponsors of the new scheme urged today.

Reuter Home Scene of Pretty Bridge Tea

Gay red flowers made an attractive setting for the bridge party held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herman A. Reuter, 1426 Fruit street, where Mrs. Reuter, Mrs. A. A. Brock and Mrs. Walter Hickey acted as hostesses.

The affair was held as a means to raise money to be added to the John Muir P.-T. A. treasury. Tallies and appointments at the tea tables carried out the Valentine motif.

Pretty gifts were awarded the holder of high scores at each table. A pretty little clock sometimes can contribute a friendly live note that makes a living thing of a room that was entirely inanimate before.

Girl Reserve Secretary Will Lead Group at Conference

Adding special interest to the mid-winter conference of Southern California Girl Reserves that is to take place in San Diego February 15, 16 and 17, is the fact that Miss Dorothy Cartwright, popular secretary of the Santa Ana branch of that organization, is to lead a discussion group.

The group, headed by Miss Cartwright is to discuss questions concerning the various great religions of today.

The subject for all discussion groups to be held during the conference will center upon religion, as the theme for the convention is "There Are As Many Ways to God as There Are Human Hearts."

The conference will open at 6 o'clock Friday, February 15, when delegates will register, and at 9 o'clock a special entertainment will be presented.

Several addresses and the discussion groups will occupy the morning hours on Saturday and at 2:30 o'clock a boat trip about the bay will be enjoyed. The conference banquet will be held at the San Diego high school Saturday night at 7 o'clock.

The service of worship Sunday morning at 9 o'clock will be held in the First Congregational church and the remaining morning hours will be free.

A group of Santa Ana Girl Reserves is planning to attend the conference with Miss Cartwright. These girls are to have charge of the recreational program at the convention.

Those planning to make the trip south besides Miss Cartwright are Rose Allen, president of the Methodist club; Doris Bolles of the Methodist club; Marian Parsons, president of the Inter-club council; Carol Smith and Bernice Walker of the Congregational club; Evelyn Harding and Enid Bowles of the Presbyterian club; Alpha Carlson of the United Presbyterian club. Mrs. E. T. McFadden of the Girl Reserves committee of the Y. W. C. A. will accompany the group.

Community Players Postpone Meeting One week

Eighteenth century English drama will occupy the attention of Santa Ana Community Players at their next meeting in The Barn on Thursday night, February 14. These informal gatherings of the association members, are usually held on the first Thursday night of each month, but owing to the fact that the third play in the entertainment season, "Her Temporary Husband," will have its premier performance tonight, at the Yost Spurgeon theater, The Barn meeting date was postponed one week.

Miss Edith Cornell, this year's program chairman, today explained some of the entertainment plans for next Thursday night's meeting, when Miss Agnes Todd Miller of the English department of Santa Ana high school and junior college, will give a review of Eighteenth century dramatists. In addition, Gladys Simpson Shafer will present groups of players in scenes from two of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's masterpieces, "The Rivals" and "School for Scandal."

The February social committee will arrange for refreshments to be served during the informal social hour. Anyone interested in the drama in any of its phases, including study, production, acting, stage carpentry or directing, will be welcomed to membership in the association, and attendance at the monthly meetings in The Barn, which is located on McCloy street just south of East Fourth street.

W. H. M. S.

A most delightful birthday luncheon took place in the Sunday school room of the First Methodist Episcopal church, at noon, Wednesday.

Twelve tables, with tall tapers and a birthday cake on each table, were cleverly decorated to simulate the twelve months. The centerpiece of each table represented some phase of the work of the Woman's Home Missionary society. The twelve hostesses, under the leadership of Mrs. R. L. Matthews, included Mrs. Shisk, in charge of the deaconess table; Mrs. R. E. Lutes, in charge of the mountain white table; Mrs. Fuller, at the hospital table; Mrs. Blower, at the negro table; Miss Marjorie Lusk, at the woman's home mission table; Mrs. Kisting, at the Alaska table; Mrs. Clarence Bond, at the Mills cottage table; Mrs. John Estes at the all nations table; Mrs. McCormac at the David and Margaret home table; Mrs. Smith at the Japanese table; Miss Grace Grigsby at the Mexican table; Mrs. Guthrie at the Indian table, and Mrs. T. A. Winbinger at the city missions table.

After a delicious three-course luncheon, the guests remained seated at the tables for the afternoon program.

Gene Trago Is Wedded At Quite Ceremony In Los Angeles

While Santa Ana friends of Gene Trago, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Trago, 216 Cypress street, have been aware for some time of his engagement to a charming Los Angeles girl, Miss Margaret Hampton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vay Hampton, 345 North Mariposa boulevard, in that city, yet no intimation of the date selected for their marriage, had been given by either family, so announcement that it was to take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock, came as a pleasant surprise.

Gene Trago is one of the best known and liked young men ever to have completed the Santa Ana high school course, and his friends watched his career at Stanford, (where he graduated in 1923) and later in the business world, with a marked degree of interest. His successes with the General Motors Acceptance corporation of New York, have been matter for much congratulation, all of which tends to increase interest in his marriage this afternoon.

The ceremony was to be one of extreme simplicity, scheduled to take place in the United Presbyterian church on Wilshire boulevard, with an old family friend of Mr. and Mrs. Hampton, to officiate. Guests were to be limited to the parents of the two young people, Mr. and Mrs. Hampton, and the latter's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wallace of Whittier. Mrs. Wallace will be remembered as Miss Kathleen Trago of this city.

Mr. Trago and his bride will leave tomorrow morning for New York City, planning to stop over in New Orleans, Washington, D. C. and other interesting cities.

The marriage this afternoon was to be the culmination of plans made early in the fall, at which time the young people expected to wed during the Christmas holidays, with plans made for the ceremony in Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside. Unfortunately Mr. Trago's return from Texas and Arizona territory for Christmas, was succeeded by a severe attack of influenza, from which he is just now recuperating after an illness of many weeks. He spent last week in this city with his parents, but prior to that he had been under the care of specialists in Los Angeles.

Mr. Trago was a member of Theta Delta Chi, and as president of his house, attended the national convention in two different years. As a devotee of amateur dramatics, he was a member of the honorary dramatic fraternity of Stanford, also of Los Angeles Athletic Club. His bride is a graduate of University of California at Los Angeles, where she was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority as well as of Delta Tau Mu, the honorary professional sorority, and of the Merry Maskers, the U. C. L. A. drama club.

noon's program. Mrs. E. M. Mills, National Bureau secretary of Children's work; Mrs. Cole of Orange, conference birthday secretary; Mrs. Williamson, San Diego district president; and the Rev. George Warner, pastor of the local church, were the guests of honor, and were introduced by Mrs. W. B. Snow, president of the local society.

Mrs. Cole gave an address on the birthday project, telling of the many needs which are being met by each individual's gift of 50 cents to the birthday fund.

Mrs. Williamson spoke of the goals to be met in the society, especially the need of honorary and auxiliary members; the need of full mite boxes, and a mite box for every member. She gave a brief outline of the work of the Methodist Episcopal hospital in Los Angeles, and of the Nurses guild.

The entire assembly then joined in singing the jubilee hymn, "Fifty Golden Years," after which Mrs. Hutchins led in devotions, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Horton Palmer.

Mrs. E. M. Mills graciously presented the scope of the work of the Woman's Home Missionary society. She brought out the fact that

Mush Bread
2 cups sweet milk
3-4 cup corn meal
4 eggs—separated
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt

This Mush Bread is somewhat similar to the Southern Spoon Bread, for it, too, is served from the dish to the table. It serves as an omelette and as a delicious hot bread. Needless to say it is a meat substitute of the highest order.

Heat the milk to the boiling point in a double boiler, sift the meal slowly into the hot milk and cook until the consistency of thin mush. Take from the heat and cool slightly.

Separate the eggs, beat the whites dry and stiff, and the yolks creamy. Stir the yolks into the cooled mush, add the salt and sugar, then fold in the whites.

Pour the mixture into a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven until the bread begins to raise, when the heat may be increased to finish and brown the bread. Serve at the table, using a spoon to lift from the pan.

There are portions for four or six, according to appetite, in the Mush Bread with the calories totaling 1100. The eggs and milk make this a protein dish, and the cornmeal lends its carbohydrates to supply heat and energy. For children and adults who must eat a stated daily quantity of eggs and milk this recipe offers an opportunity to get them to do so gracefully. It is very good!

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

When woman breaks the law, she insists on arguing herself and everyone else into believing that she has only done what she had every right in the world to do and that the law is a silly old thing, anyway. When men break a law they accept the fact that they have erred and are criminal and only asked to get their punishment and have it over with.

This sums up the attitude of Duncan Alkman, writing in the current "Harper's." He discusses men and women as violators of everything from traffic to our moral code. A man pleads guilty to speeding and knows that it is wrong; a woman argues that the law is an insult to her individual case and that she had a right to speed. Men plead alibies, he continues, when caught in violations of the conventional and moral code. A woman argues that she is above such sordid considerations and had every right to fulfill her own love life in her own individual way.

WHY IS IT?

"The ladies have been so long taught to consider themselves our better angels that they find it difficult, if not impossible, to abandon the advantageous pose of moral superiority even when indulging in conduct suggesting quite the opposite," he writes.

It might be pertinent to ask, granting that he is right, and he sounds fairly reasonable just who is responsible for this ladylike attitude. Methinks I have heard men murmur that creatures so altogether delectable could do no wrong; methinks I have heard it suggested that males find a certain charm in the so-feminine vagaries and inconsistencies of woman-kind. But, as is quite ordinarily true, as is quite ordinarily quite so palatable, they object to a theory they themselves started.

WHO'S SURPRISED

Men and women care much more about their looks than hygiene, according to some figures recently released to prove that women spend more money each year for face powders alone than the whole country spends for tooth paste or powder. This last figure proves that the average individual uses about one and a half tubes of tooth paste a year. Hair dyes, rouges, perfumes, bath salts, all the luxurious cosmetics run the annual cosmetic bill up to nearly $200,000,000.

But why even wonder? Since when has modern living stressed the worth of the practical and unshowy as contrasted with the showy and frivolous?

The man who owned the great big bear, was queer, and made the Tinnies stare. He wore a high plug hat, and it was funny as could be. His feet were big, and he was tall and skinny, and that wasn't all. His clothes fit very loosely, and his pants bagged at the knee.

All of a sudden he spoke out, "I'll tell you what I'll all about. I travel 'round the country and make money with my bear. He knows a lot of clever tricks, but sometimes gets me in a fix. The people scampers when he howls. It gives them quite a scare. 'I've been to towns all o'er the land. I'm tired now, and can hardly stand. I think I'll sit and rest a while. Sit down! I'll tell you more.' And then came forth a merry cheer. The bunch were very glad to hear the interesting stories that the old man had in store.

When they were seated on the ground, their new friend pointed all around. Said he, "No matter where I point, be sure that I've been there. Fine wealth with Bruin I can win. He keeps the money rolling in by showing off for people at most any county fair."

And then he said, "Hi, Bruin! You had better show the tricks you do. 'Twill please these little fellows, and they'll give you much applause." The bear began to gaily prance. He turned a flip and did a dance. And then he finished up by standing on his two front paws.

"Hop on his back," the old man cried. "He'll gladly give you all a ride." The Tots all hopped and so did every single Tinnymite. The bear ran 'round and 'round and 'round. Some riders slipped off to the ground. In fact they all fell off in time. 'Twas hard to hang on tight.

(The bunch go fishing in the next story.)

POPULAR PAIR IN LATEST OFFERING

Combine the remarkable acting ability of Greta Garbo and John Gilbert, and the writing ability of Michael Arlen, and you have the current offering at the West Coast-Walker theatre, a play of drama and intrigue, of love, romance and sacrifice that will make strong appeal to all admirers of the screen's most famous lovers, and of May-fair's most famous scribe.

Miss Garbo plays the role of "Diana," that "gallant lady" whose fortunes were so eagerly read when Arlen first made her famous. And as all Greta Garbo fans understand, she presents her in a remarkable dramatic and understanding fashion. And of course John Gilbert is as handsome and virile and dynamic as ever, even if he is torn between two loves.

JOHN MACK BROWN

Dorothy Sebastian's work as "Constance" is quite smooth and finished, which is especially noteworthy when one remembers the competition offered by the principals in the play. And of course Hobart Bosworth is always to be depended upon for a fine performance with the same remark repeated for Lewis Stone, John Mack Brown and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., those two dashing youngsters of the screen, add thoroughly satisfactory performances, making it practically an all-star cast.

The picture is beautifully produced, and most artistically set pictorially. There is one scene of an Oxford and Cambridge boat race, for instance, which is amazingly well done.

Queen Mary's Christmas cards illustrate the phrase: "When summer weaves her magic spell," which is one of her majesty's famous flower subjects.

COLLEGIATE DRAMA COMES TO BROADWAY

Said to portray a new side of collegiate life in vivid colors but with complete understanding, "Red Lips," starring Charles Rogers and Marian Nixon, will open tonight at the Yost Broadway theatre.

Because of its youth and interest, college has been a frequent subject of motion pictures. Universal has chosen to show the glamorous side in "Red Lips" and depicts the romance between a shy youth and an off-campus flapper. Rogers and Miss Nixon, two of Hollywood's youngest stars, are said to portray to perfection the heart of modern youth. An entire college campus was constructed for the picture. It includes a track, dormitory, student's amusement hall and other features of collegiate life.

The supporting cast is reported to be unusually good. Stanley Taylor appears as the roommate of Rogers. Hugh Trevor, Hayden Stevenson, Andy Devine, Robert Seiter and Earl McCarthy are in the cast, plus a bevy of Hollywood's snappiest beauties.

On the same bill will be the lively stage show with Les Shrader and his band, the Hollywood Peaches and Ben Turpin himself as master of ceremonies.

In policy with his plan to present well-known and well-liked pictures at popular prices, Clinton Buell, manager of the West End theatre, today announced that he was presenting the famous "Merry-Go-Round," today and tomorrow, in that theatre, with matinee performances beginning at 2 o'clock and evening shows at the usual hour.

"Merry-Go-Round" is the famous picture of carnival life which was begun under the direction of Eric Von Stroheim and completed under Rupert Julian. Lovely Mary Philbin plays the leading role of the daughter of the old carnival owner, while Norman Kerry is the very handsome hero-prince. The picture promises to be one of the most popular in the succession of successes chosen by Buell for local presentation.

Edwards Tells Stand On Newport Harbor Development

EXCHANGE CLUB GETS VIEWS OF STATE SENATOR

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 7.—State Senator Nels Edwards made the principal address at the Exchange club luncheon here yesterday. He was followed by Assemblyman Ted Craig.

In reporting on the several measures of interest to the local members, Edwards said that he expected little opposition to the high school bill although it would be nullified by the central county school bill if that was passed. He believed that the central county bill would be defeated. The tide line bill would pass, he predicted.

The bill adding 600 miles of Southern California roads to the list of secondary state highways was to secure a more equitable distribution of that part of the gasoline tax allotted to maintenance and reconstruction, he said. The northern part of the state has 1700 miles to maintain, while the southern part has but 525 miles listed as such, he said. Several Orange county roads will be included in this list, if the measure passes.

In regards to the harbor bill, Edwards said that while he had introduced the measure he had not promised to work for its passage and that unless he could be shown that the majority of the people in the county favored it, that he would not do so. When he was asked if passage of the bill, allowing voters in Orange county the opportunity to express their views in that matter, would not be the most conclusive method, he replied that it might stir up sectional feeling. He said that the water conservation measure had been introduced on the majority basis but that those in the northern part of his district were against any-

First Dance Of Chamber Attracts 150

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 7.—More than 100 attended the first annual banquet of the San Clemente Chamber of Commerce at Travaglini's cafe Tuesday night. The dance was held in the Social club, and Dan Mulherson, president of the chamber, reports the organization well satisfied with its first social effort. The Men's club assisted the chamber in staging the affair.

Madam Manuela Gabriela, of Santa Ana, led the San Clemente Choral society in its first public appearance. Tony Travaglini sang, Mary Gleason, La Rosa de Castilla, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gleason made her debut as a professional dancer and drew a big hand. Mrs. Julia Chalk, head of the San Clemente Music academy, was at the piano. The Baker Boys orchestra furnished the music at banquet and dance.

Dr. Akagi is a native of Japan and a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and of Harvard. In his talk he told of the work done by the Y. M. C. A. Among the Japanese students in the colleges in the United States.

SAYS VISITORS EXCEL IN AUTO LICENSE EXAMS

ORANGE, Feb. 7.—Motorists visiting in the state pass better examinations for drivers' licenses than residents of California, according to Ernie Sawyer, state traffic officer. Sawyer assists Motor Traffic Officer Horace Inge in conducting examinations here.

The traffic officer declares that residents of the state are too confident that they know the laws and consequently do not study them as diligently as visitors. Visiting, he says, they know nothing of the laws of the state and work to learn them.

Age does not count in examinations, Sawyer says. He gives as an example the case of a man who appeared in Anaheim not long ago and asked for a driver's license. The man gave his age as 71 years. He is a visitor in the state and yet the applicant passed an examination that resulted in a grading of 100 per cent.

A grade of 80 per cent must be obtained for the issuance of a duplicate certificate, 70 per cent or better for an original and 100 per cent for a chauffeur's license, Sawyer says.

Life, Death Of Lincoln Club Topic

FULLERTON, Feb. 7.—Using as a subject the life and death of Abraham Lincoln, members gave short talks at the meeting of the Fullerton Rotary club yesterday at McFarland's cafe.

In speaking of Lincoln, C. C. Chapman declared that he was one of the great citizens of the world. Capt. J. W. Edwards, who was sergeant of the guard at the hanging of the conspirators after the death of Lincoln, declared the plotting and killing of Lincoln one of the greatest tragedies in the history of the nation. He described the scene of the hanging of the conspirators at Washington, D. C. He also described the disposition of the body of John Wilkes Booth, assassin of Lincoln. Booth's body was taken by the secret service officers and lowered into the deepest point of the Potomac river, he said.

George Tinsley welcomed Chapman in his continued connection with the club, in a ceremony in which Chapman was made an honorary member of the Fullerton Rotary club.

LAGUNA SEWER BOARD FOUND MINUS POWERS

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 7.—What's what in sanitation and who's who in sewers took on a new importance this week, when it became known that the Laguna Beach Sanitary district has been practically without actual authority for the past year and a half.

Sewers and sanitation have been most questions in many a stormy session of the city council. Various methods of bringing the two existing districts under direct city supervision have been considered, but always there have been discovered complications which seemed to make this impossible.

Now, it has been learned that the problem is not only simple, but that it has already been solved, though this fact was not discovered until 18 months after it had happened.

When the city of Laguna Beach was incorporated with city limits that included the Arch Beach Sanitary district and the Laguna Beach Sanitary district, and both of them, they have, however, continued to exist and boards have been elected and have functioned during that period.

The matter became a subject of investigation when N. E. West, representing the Yoch company, asked that the Laguna Beach sanitary district serve a subdivision of his company with sewers as being within the district entitled to sewers. His company offered to do whatever was necessary in taking up certain disputed items of expense. However, other problems beset the board and no action was taken.

One phase of the controversy was whether the district could order sewers laid in streets over which the city had jurisdiction. While there was no actual conflict of authority, there was a potential one, and this point was made clear by City Attorney Moresby White, who was called in by the sanitary board. In the course of his investigation, he discovered that the district has ceased to exist legally and so informed the board. Legal advice subsequently secured confirmed the local man's opinion.

The law on dissolving such districts requires that not less than two-thirds of all of the registered voters in the district cast their ballots affirmatively. Doubters have pointed out the apparent impossibility of getting out such a large vote.

PLACENTIA P.-T. A. OBSERVES FOUNDING

YORBA LINDA, Feb. 7.—Seven years ago the Yorba Linda Parent-Teacher association was founded, its first president being Mrs. Donald Holloway, of Whittier. Tuesday afternoon Mrs. A. B. McDavid, historian of the local P.-T. A., read an interesting account of the founding of the organization and its work since that time.

The pupils of the third and fourth grades presented a little play written by their teacher, Miss Ellen R. Sells. The musical part of the program was a violin solo by Raymond Stagner, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. H. Seamans.

Refreshments were served by the room mothers of the third and fourth grades, Mrs. J. Carter, Mrs. Fred Johnson, Mrs. N. Renninger and Mrs. A. B. McDavid. The founder's day cake, which was baked by Mrs. Ezra Stanley, was not cut, but was presented to Mrs. Charles Paine, principal of the school.

PLACENTIA C. OF C. HEARS TED CRAIG

PLACENTIA, Feb. 7.—Assemblyman Ted Craig of Brea, gave a short talk at the chamber session Tuesday.

The Rev. James Parsons, of Kansas City and Los Angeles, talked on his work among men released from prisons.

J. Clarke Chamberlain, of Anaheim, past president of the Toastmasters club, commended the chamber on its custom of allowing members to meet weekly with the directors, instead of having the meeting confined to district.

W. K. Maxwell, publisher; E. K. Maxwell, managing editor, and A. E. Davis, city editor, of the Fullerton News-Tribune, were special guests of the chamber. President A. S. Bradford gave a short address of welcome, and called on H. H. Hale, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county, for a speech.

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. ### WATER BOARD ELECTION SET FOR MARCH 26

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 7.—Election of directors of the Laguna Beach County Water district is set for March 26, according to a resolution adopted by the board of directors. This will be the first election since the district was formed more than two years ago.

The Laguna district holds the distinction of having voted its $600,000 in bonds without a single dissenting vote. The system is now valued at a figure in excess of one million dollars. Of the original board of directors, Joseph R. Jahraus, president, Thomas A. Cummings, former mayor of the city, and Frank B. Champion, present mayor, are still in office. Other members, appointed several months ago, are G. B. Prior, city clerk, and John L. Brice, one of the first five city trustees. Mrs. Leslie Weisgerber is secretary of the district and George Wildig is general manager.

Petitions for nominations are separate sheets, each elector permitted to sign not more than five, with but one candidate on each. In order to appear on the official ballot, each candidate must have not less than 25 petitions properly signed by qualified electors. Saturday is the first date on which each petition may be presented to the county clerk, and February 23 is the final date for presenting petitions.

Figures compiled recently by the manager for the public to show something of the physical equipment and methods pursued by the district indicates something of the quantity of water consumed. The total for the past year has been 10,674,300 cubic feet, nearly 80,000,000 gallons, with an approximate weight of 330,000 tons.

There are 1282 service connections, two wells, two aeration sumps, 13 miles of main line from wells to Laguna Beach, two concrete reservoirs, three steel tanks, 26 miles of distribution lines and 66 fire hydrants.

Four million gallons of water is in storage at all times.

Students Of Two Schools In Program

FULLERTON, Feb. 7.—Students of the high school yesterday enjoyed a program presented by various members of the Anaheim high school student body. The program was given in an effort to create and maintain a more friendly feeling between the two schools and to eliminate any misunderstandings that might exist.

The president of the Anaheim student body was in charge of the program and declared that it was his hope that in the future the feeling of friendship between the students of the two schools might be as keen as the rivalry has been in the past.

Various musical numbers and comical skits were enjoyed by the entire assembly. An interesting feature of the program was a playlet in which the chief of the Fullerton Indians and a representative of the Anaheim Colonists met to sign a treaty which would join the Indians and the Colonists in a bond of friendship.

A return program is to be presented by Fullerton at Anaheim early in March.

ASSOCIATION TO BACK RANCH AS STATE PARK AIM

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 7.—Formation of an association to promote the famous old Santa Margarita rancho for a state park will take place at a mass meeting to be held at the mission at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, according to W. H. Griswold, a director of the San Juan Chamber of Commerce and sponsor of the project.

The move was fostered after it became known that the owners of the property were in a position to sell the rancho. The proposition already has drawn enthusiastic response from a number of representative civic bodies in the Southland.

The rancho comprises more than 200,000 acres of virgin land, including a strip of 18 miles of beaches along the Pacific ocean from San Clemente to the city of Ocean side. This vast territory is bounded on every side by highways and its environment is declared ideal for state park purposes. Two-thirds of the population of the entire state of California live within 50 miles of the proposed park, Griswold said.

COUNTY GROUP ORGANIZED TO FIGHT DISEASE

elans and nurses, with a clinic composed of leading surgeons of Orange county, daily combat the ravages of disease and malnutrition in children more unfortunate than yours.

This staff of noted surgeons forming the clinic, is composed of Dr. J. M. Burlew, Santa Ana; Dr. H. A. Johnston, Anaheim, and Dr. D. C. Cowles, Fullerton, with Dr. John Wilson, of Los Angeles (formerly of Santa Ana) as consulting specialist in orthopedic diseases. Busy as they are with the demands of their own practices, these men all donate their services to the children brought to the county hospital for treatment. From all over Orange county they are brought, these pathetic little people who have been denied childhood's rightful heritage of health and laughter. Each Saturday sees from a dozen to 25 or more led or carried into the consulting room at the hospital where they are met by Miss Gertrude Crowell, superintendent and physician's assistant, and by Miss Lillian Fitzpatrick, director of social service at the county hospital, or by Mrs. Vivian Henry, in charge of the clinic.

Skilled diagnosis quickly determines the cause of the trouble—whether it is congenital or through some injury, or a case of improper nutrition, or those dread enemies of childhood, spinal meningitis, infantile paralysis or tuberculosis.

There is no time wasted between the diagnosis and beginning of treatment. And that is where the county hospital proves its added value to the people of the community. For all the necessary equipment is right at hand, and from the citizens of the county themselves, comes the wherewithal to continue the great work. Bright commodious wards where the curative California sunlight pours in broad golden waves; carefully fitted operating rooms; sanitary diet kitchens, and what is dearer to the hearts of childhood than all the prettiness of a whole bevy of gay and laughing, yet careful and tender as mothers with their young charges. These are features of the care offered to ailing children, in addition to the scrupulous attention of the county's finest medical specialists.

Some of the little patients may be treated at weekly or even monthly visits to the clinic, and in the meantime return to their homes and the companionship of parents, brothers and sisters. Others are in need of constant care, and are received into the orthopedic ward on the second floor of the main building at the hospital. Miss Mary Chase has charge of this floor and with her aides among the graduate and student nurses, tends a wealth of understanding and attention to the helpless children.

If you would take the time to stop in at the hospital, and visit this ward, you would see a double row of narrow white beds, each with a smiling-faced child. For no matter how they suffer, these little patients never seem to lose their cheery smiles. You would see Sammy, who for the past two years has been undergoing treatment for Pott's disease, and who has reached that stage in his recovery where he has "graduated" to a Bradford frame in which his crooked little spine is gradually straightening out.

There is blonde young Marvin who fairly squealed with delight when he was lifted over to a wheel chair for a little rest. They grow so weary of their beds, these poor little sufferers. John Oliveras is another lad who occasionally gets to sit in a wheel chair, but even long weeks in bed cannot quench the sparkle of mischief in his great dark eyes. Robert has been in the hospital for over a year, and is a case of which the doctors are very proud indeed, as an example of what may be accomplished. Robert was suffering from tuberculosis of the hips, and it looked as though his case was hopeless. But to modern medical science, few things are utterly hopeless, so Robert was started on special treatment with light rays. Then the diseased bones were curreted, and now after weary months, the lad is in readiness for the rigid plaster cast which will slowly straighten his legs, and make it possible for him to walk and grow in normal fashion.

These are some of the extreme cases which are receiving special care and treatment, but others attending the weekly clinics are in an almost equally serious condition, because if left unattended, their ailments would mean a lifetime of lameness and suffering. But in this scientific age, club-foot may be straightened, tuberculous joints cured, and curved spines straightened, with comparative ease. And that is the mission to which the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange county, has devoted itself.

A SENATORIAL SCRAP

Senator Heflin, of Alabama, injected an issue which some people call religious into the Senate the other day, which resulted in an exciting time.

This particular controversy was projected by a proposed amendment which the Alabama Senator made to the cruiser construction bill to prohibit the flying of the church pennant above the American flag on American battleships during Divine service.

It appeared, in the course of the controversy over this resolution, that the Navy Department had already issued instructions that this should no longer be done. Mr. Heflin's statements against the program was on his well known anti-Catholic views. He was insisting that this church emblem was so much like the flag of the Pope that it should not be permitted to fly above the American flag. Eight Democrats and two Republicans voted for his resolution, all the other Senators who voted, voted against it. The eight Democratic Senators were all from the South. One of the Republicans was from Maine and one from Iowa.

We are not interested in the controversy from the angle that Senator Heflin injected it. As one of the Senator's suggested, "There is nothing in the Constitution that prohibits any man from making a fool of himself." We have never considered that a pennant indicative of the religious convictions of a people above the flag of the nation was out of harmony with the spirit of loyalty and patriotism. We have noted with warm interest and approval the use of the emblem of the cross and the words "By this sign conquer" as a fine expression of the spirit of the Great Prophet, Reformer, and Leader who suffered to save mankind.

His means of conquering, however, were not by making His enemies shed blood or by making them suffer, but by suffering Himself. If one would carry out the spirit of the cross he would have to carry out his contest by shedding his own blood rather than that of his enemy. We have always felt that it was rather incongruous to place a pennant typifying a religion with that kind of sacrifice, and struggle, and death for its origin over a warship or an army that enters into battle for the purpose of mutilating and killing as many men as possible in as short a time as possible. Many religious generals have instituted prayer just before battles for their side, and men on the opposite side, who shortly will be at each other's throats, call upon the same Deity with the same religious teachings and convictions to help them in their undertaking for the day and give them victory. This is a sight that is beyond our power of imagination and reason to harmonize with either the highest religious motives or the finest patriotism.

We do not know the reason why the Navy Department has determined that the religious pennant shall not fly above the American flag, but we are perfectly content that it shall not do so.

"Til the war drums throb'd no longer
And the battle flags were furled,
In the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

The former kaiser, in his new book, "My Ancestors," counsels the people of Germany to be fearless and loyal. Just to prove he wasn't kidding, he might have added the word "discreet."

ITALY AND VATICAN AGREE

The most significant item in today's news is the announcement of the agreement between the Vatican and the Italian government. Since 1870 and the defeat of the church, the Pope has considered himself a prisoner in the Vatican because of being stripped of certain temporal powers which the Holy See enjoyed for more than 1100 years. This we fully discussed several days ago in these columns.

In the agreement it appears the church received a little more than was expected in the way of money, for the church will be paid $105,000,000 instead of $57,000,000, as was expected. One-half of this amount will be cash and the balance of it in deferred payments. All of the territory which the Pope receives is not contiguous, but in these various places there will be extra territorial rights enjoyed by the church. The powers of sovereignty, namely that of coining money, issuing bank notes, printing postage stamps, etc., will be within her rights.

The Italian government has agreed to enforce canon law throughout Italy. This is regarded as the most important provision of the settlement and the one which weighed most favorably with the Holy See.

This has settled, as far as the Italian government is considered, a long drawn out controversy begun by the army of Victor Emanuel. Mussolini has undoubtedly made a strategic move by this act. He has won the co-operation of the Vatican for his future plan, and with the power he already possesses, now so remarkably increased, he is in an enviable position from the standpoint of a ruler.

Popular colors for spring will be bonnie-blue, fandangio, foliage and rosalind. Thus are blue, yellow, green and rose promoted!

PROTECTING THEMSELVES

The Senators had a bitter conflagration the other day castigating the unknown man who divulged the vote, taken in executive session on the confirmation of Roy O. West. The information on the vote is supposed to have been given to a newspaper man by one of the Senators.

In the discussion, the Senators all protected each other by maintaining that the record as given out was scandalously incorrect, and at the same time refusing to divulge how they themselves voted. "To my personal knowledge it was not correct," said Senator Glass. "It was scandalously incorrect," said Senator Ashurst.

Nothing is expected to be done about the executive session, since the amendment providing for the consideration of nominations in open session, unless the Senator decides otherwise by a two-thirds vote, was referred to a committee where Senator Dill who sponsored the amendment fears it will be buried.

PENDING WISCONSIN EXPERIMENT

Wisconsin is still serving as the political and economic laboratory. A new bill introduced provides that a prospective merchant would be required to prove that an additional retail store in a neighborhood is needed before he could start a new business.

According to the provisions of the bill, anyone planning to start a store would be required to notify the State Banking Commissioner who would call a hearing on the need of the additional establishment.

At this distance the bill is interesting. We can imagine, however, the opposition that will meet a proposal to place so much control in the hands of a commission and the bitter arguments about freedom which frustrated merchants who desire to start stores in communities will meet.

Of course, we have our banks and public utilities protected now in the same sense as this bill provides, but we wonder whether the Wisconsin solon would propose giving the same degree of government supervision and control of merchants to the state and national authorities which they now have over banks and public utilities.

We are willing to let Wisconsin try out the experiment but who is to be the judge whether there is better business conditions with such controlled business or under open competition?

There would be a question which never could be decided: whether the existing merchants in a community were serving the people as well as a new merchant could. He might be more enterprising, have better ideas, better judgment in buying but because there were enough merchants of his class already he would be sent elsewhere.

FACTORS IN PROSPERITY

A Chicago judge declares that if it were not for alimony there would not be as many divorces by any means in the United States. This is undoubtedly true, and if it were not for the prospect of alimony there would not be as many marriages.

Maybe if there were not so many rich men in the country there would not be so many of either marriages or divorces.

Loyalty Desirable

Irving Summers was in a hole. Not in the ground, but in the figurative hole, that all of us find ourselves in at some time or other.

His dog Pal was before the court up in Spokane, charged with murder. Charged with a flock of murders, for the court accused Pal of slaying some 400 prize rabbits. Irving is 11 years old, and his father was accused of harboring a vicious dog.

Irving was chief witness for the defense. Stoutly he maintained that his dog had not committed the crime with which he was charged. What boy of 11 would not do anything to save his dog?

"How do you know your dog didn't kill these rabbits?" asked the judge. "Well, I have two little rabbits of my own and Pal never hurt them," Irving told the court.

This was a point in Pal's favor, but it did not convince the court. A dog could be friendly to rabbits forming a part of his own household, but it might be different where somebody else owned the little animals.

Nothing but an iron-clad alibi would save Pal. Irving had the alibi but hesitated to use it except as a last resort, for to do so would be to incriminate himself.

The court conferred with attaches, looked down from the bench at Irving and the latter read down for his dog in the judge's countenance. Now, he decided, was the time for his alibi. He would produce it and take the consequences. With a beseeching look for mercy directed at his mother, he plunged in to save Pal.

"Please judge, I can prove Pal didn't do it because he was not out the night the rabbits were killed. It was cold outside so I took him into bed with me and he was there all night." It was out at last, confession of violating a strict family rule, but Irving was willing to take the consequences. A fellow has to stand by a pal.

The judge was a boy once himself. He took the case under advisement and will take a week to think over the matter.

We feel certain this is only a formality. No man worthy the name man, and the honor of being a judge, could pass sentence on Pal after his young master made such a plea for him. We feel equally sure that Irving's parents will overlook the matter of violating the family rule. There are many times when rules and laws are ridiculous and one of them is when a boy feels sorry for his dog, forced to be out in the cold when he himself is snug and warm.

Irving could have hidden the truth and allowed the law to deal with Pal. The latter could never speak for himself, and nobody would ever have been the wiser. Many men whom the world has called honorable, have failed on occasions to show such honor as this.

There is no finer trait than loyalty. A man may be amiss in many things but if he is loyal to his friends much can be said in his behalf. And when a boy is loyal to his dog there is every reason to believe he will grow up into the kind of a man that in our best moments we all like to consider ourselves to be.

A Plain Issue

San Diego Union

Col. Stewart's reply to the mustering of the Rockefeller clan against his leadership in the Standard of Indiana, is an extremely telling reply. Those who are in a position to know, assert that it will certainly win for him. For, where the Rockefeller's assailed him with arguments and upon a matter of principle, Col. Stewart came back at them with hard cash earned for stockholders. This type of rejoinder is not new in public affairs of any kind. In Big Business, until quite recently, it was the only form of argument employed. It is significant of our changed business ethics, that even a suggestion of possibly defeating Stewart should be current.

The reply clarifies the situation, making it a plain case of profits versus principles. The stockholders' reaction will be interesting.

Our Automobile Population

Oakland Tribune

For every twelve automobiles in the United States, one is registered in California.

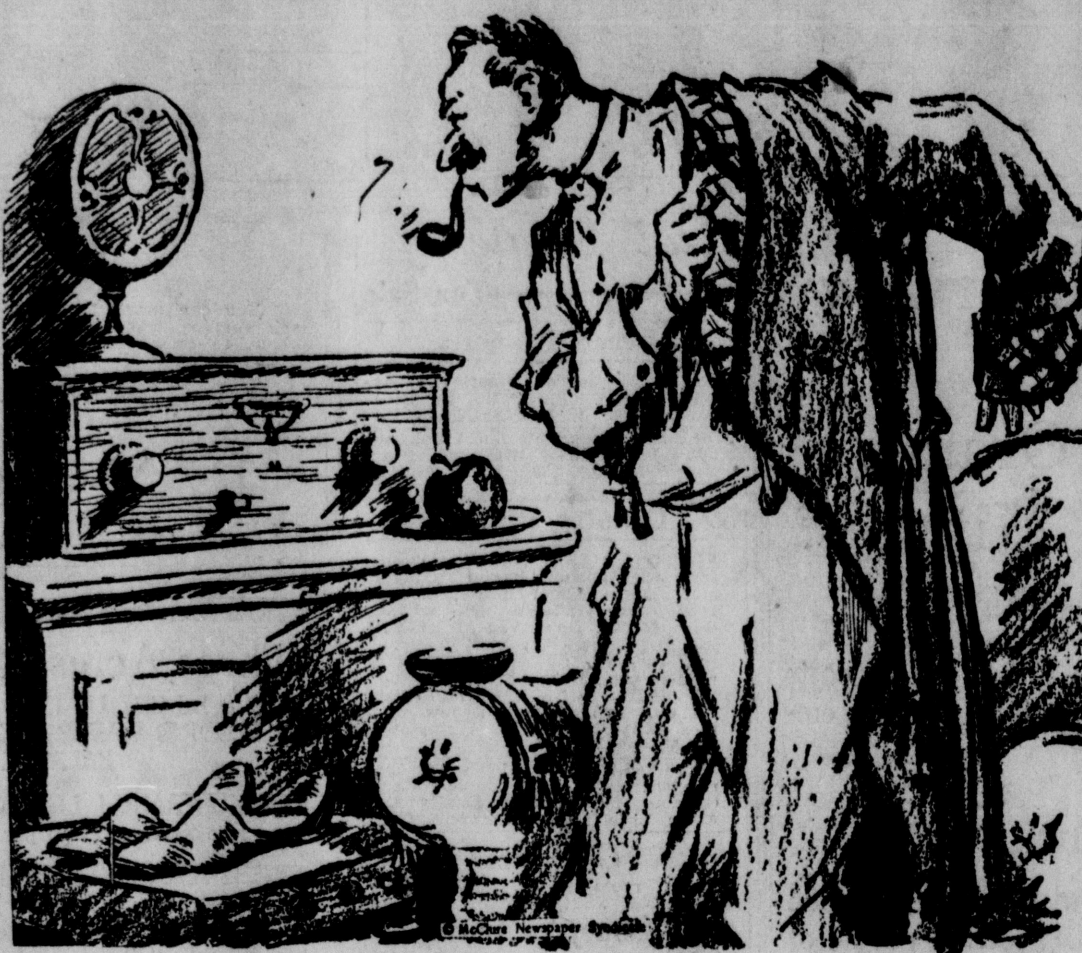

No state in the Union, save New York, has more registered automobiles than California. And no state has as many passenger automobiles. These are conclusions drawn from the report that, in 1928, the number of motor vehicles in the state was 1,859,432, or 12,667 more than in 1927. The year's gain represents more motor vehicles than are registered in many states.

It is no wonder the demand here is for good roads and highways and that the State is keeping pace with that demand as rapidly as possible.

In 1928 there were 1,859,432 automobiles in California. In 1900 there were 1,435,953 persons in the state.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE HIGHER CRIME HUNTING
New York's Police Commissioner is going to have college professors instruct the members of his force.

Where's Patrolman Roughenup,
Who laid aside his hod,
Pinned on a shield and stepped outside
And gave the gunmen such a ride
That he became the joy and pride
Of all the strong arm squad?
No more he lugs a pocket Krupp
Or treats the bad men rough,
He's at the station boning up
On Psychologic stuff.

Where is Sergeant Eaglebeak,
Who in the days of old,
Had very little use for books
But who, by his malignant looks
Could frighten the most practiced crooks
And scare the gangsters cold?
The sergeant, who had everything
Back in the good old time
Is at headquarters, studying
The literature of crime.

Where is Captain Grabemquick,
Who six short years ago
Knew every evil doer's name
Who, owing to his steady aim
And crafty strategy, became
The grafter's deadliest foe?
Serene and pallid is his brow
And flabby is his fist,
For Captain Grabemquick is now
A criminologist!

Dr. Frank Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

WHAT'S TO DO

There is no getting around it. It is unavoidable. Somebody is going to think you are a flop and a failure. If you can't talk glibly about D. H. Lawrence, realism, and H. L. Mencken, the literary-minded list a languid shoulder and their eyebrows strive to disappear in the hair above their foreheads. You are placed.

If you don't spend all your time in church work, the preacher says that you lack the spirit of service, and the deacons intimate that you dwell on a lower plane.

If you don't dance until morning, the younger set understands all about you. You are dead but won't admit it. That's that.

If you don't go wild when the felder does what he is there to do—catch a fly—the baseball fan disgustedly tells the world that you are a dead-head of the first water.

If you can't honestly show an overwhelming mixture of ecstasy and awe when the baby says "waw-waw" for "water," the young mother thinks you are a brute.

If you don't knock the plaster off the room below twice a day as you frolic through your calisthenics, the physical culturist, who bends spikes, says you are only a two-legged excuse for a real HE-MAN.

What's to do?

You can't please everybody and, if your skin is tender, the darts of uncompromising opinions will cause you pain.

But it is comforting to remember that not even the President or the world's heavyweight champion has the entire respect of everyone.

Even the acts of the Almighty are objected to by some. Like Mark Twain's voyagers who prayed for continual wind from the west, when they were the only ship sailing east and six vessels were going the other direction, some people suggest what would be proper in celestial matters and are dubious when they are not followed.

The most satisfactory lives are lived by those who follow their inclinations and their consciences and do the things they are sincerely interested in doing.

Such a plan as often leads a person to higher enjoyments as one wherein he tries to be interested in everything others think he should be interested in.

Moreover it makes a man his own, and, says Montaigne: "The greatest thing in the world is for a man to know how to be his own."

This is not a plea for irresponsibility and for doing as you please regardless of the rights of others. But it is a plea for independence.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

SALVATION BY JUNK

Yesterday I spoke of the problem of natural resources, of how natural resources will play a profound part in the international relations and national future of the people of the world.

Everywhere attention is being called to the importance of a wise conservation of natural resources, for they represent humanity's capital; when we spend them, they are gone forever.

It is one thing for humanity to live on the interest of its resources; it is another thing to live on the capital.

We are, as I said some days ago, spending our natural heritage in the spendthrift spirit of a drunken sailor, but, here and there, some bright spots in the spending appear.

George Otis Smith, director of the United States geological survey and president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, in an important new book on Recent Social Changes, writes a chapter in which he sees a star of hope shining on our junk piles.

"Unlike the foodstuffs and the water power," says Mr. Smith, "the metals are wasting assets; but they are wasting assets in a far different sense from the mineral fuels, for the metals are only in part consumed in the using."

"Whether originally used in a battleship now condemned or a flivver now obsolescent, they experience a constant reincarnation—a cycle of turnover of varying periodicity, let us say, by way of the junk pile."

"In this way the world is slowly accumulating an above-ground reserve of iron and copper and lead and zinc that far outweighs, both in tonnage and in real worth to the world, the huge gold reserve in the United States treasury."

"The value of the metals, other than iron and the precious metals, reclaimed each year and put back into use now exceeds the value of the same metals mined each year only a quarter of a century ago."

"And each year we remelt more tons of scrap iron than we produced from the ore thirty years ago."

As the draft upon our irreplaceable resources grows heavier and heavier, we shall bend our energies and focus our ingenuity upon finding ways and means of reclaiming more and more from our junk piles.

The statements of the future will have to leave their council chambers more and more frequently and poke about our junk piles.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE GOOD WORD

If all of us who have to do with children would only speak a good word for each child as we meet him, what a power we would wield for good. There is no other power so great as that of the good word spoken for or to a child. Children are suggestible far beyond our understanding. One never knows when a word is going to strike the right spot and stimulate a child to good work.

"One day I was feeling very bad. My sister had very beautiful hands and the friends and relatives of the family always made a point of giving her rings and fine gloves with which to dress them."

"I had hands that were far from beautiful. They were strong hands, firm, sure, but no one would ever think them even passable when beauty was the standard. This day they had appeared worse than usual because I had been polishing the steel knives with bathbrick. If ever you have done that you'll know just how my hands looked and felt. An aunt had looked at them and then at me, silently, but eloquently, and had given my sister a new ring. So I moped in the corner."

"My mother beckoned to me. 'Never mind. You have your grandmother's hands. She was a rarely loved woman. She did wonderful work. If you can use those hands as she used hers you have a gift from God. And I believe you have it. That's more than the beauty of form. Go ahead.'"

"After that I never grieved. I got all I could out of those hands and I've been very happy. The good word from my mother lasted through all the years."

A boy I know was going through a very trying time. His family was distressed and his teachers were losing patience when one of them said, "He has a good face. He will be all right. That face means something. You mark what I say."

The lad heard that little speech and from that day on tried to live up to his face.

A young high school girl was behaving like a rowdy; loud, crude, ill-mannered in every possible way. A wise old teacher said, "Belle, I noticed you as you walked down the corridor just now. You have the carriage of a duchess. How fortunate you are. Many a lady has to work hard to acquire a carriage and a walk like that."

Belle posed as a lady after that. Gradually the lady, the aristocrat, too proud to be ill-bred, dominated her actions and she was a great success.

Speak the good word. In season or out, speak it. The child may toss it off with a shrug, seemingly, and hug it to his thirsting soul. Children are very lonely.

In the Long Ago

More than 300 residents of Orange county went to San Diego on a Santa Fe special to attend the San Diego Exposition.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county voted to endorse the majority report of the county highway commission for the disposal of the $240,000 good roads surplus.

Miss Edith Tidball whose marriage to Drury Weiman is to occur February 12, was honored at a shower held for her by the young people of the First Presbyterian church.
